PREFATORY.

THE most abundant evidences of the continued and prosperous growth of the city are to be found throughout the pages of the present volume. Notwithstanding the rapid increase of former years it is believed that this city has made greater progress during the past twelve months than any similar period in its history.

The number of references contained in the present volume is 109,210, as follows: General Register, 75,210; Business Directory, 21,000; Appendix, 13,000. The population of the city is estimated at 200,770, a gain since March, 1873, of 12,447, or about seven per cent. The article on population, on page 13, contains valuable data on this subject to which attention is respectfully invited.

The number of buildings commenced and erected during the year ending March 1, 1874, is 671, of which 53 are of brick. In addition to numerous extensive buildings for business purposes, a number of elegant private residences have been erected that would ornament any city of the Union. The entire cost of these improvements is estimated at $4,250,000. The number of buildings in the city and county is estimated at 22,600, of which 4,200 are of brick.

The expense of maintaining the Municipal Government for the year ending June 30, 1873, is $3,780,000. The Bonded Debt, March 1, 1874, is $3,237,000. Actual Debt, including floating, $3,503,000. Total assessed real and personal property October 1, 1873, $212,208,535.

The appendix contains a variety of valuable information connected with the Municipal Organization of the city, and the Consolidation Act, with the Amendments, and the important laws referring thereto, adopted by the Legislature of the State, Session 1873–74, including the Acts regulating the Fire Department, abolishing the City Hall Commissioners, regulating the levying and collection of taxes, Board of Health, providing for public Water Works, etc., each of which is arranged under its appropriate head, to which has been added an Analytical Index of the whole, which will facilitate reference thereto. There will be also found in this department of the work a large number of references to the different organizations in this city, embracing lists of the Federal, State, and Municipal Officers, notices of local Societies and Associations, Churches, Military Organizations, Incorporations, etc. Attention is invited to a corrected Map of the City and County of San Francisco, and a revised Street Directory, including the new system of numbering the buildings, both of which have been compiled from official sources, thoroughly revised, and carefully compared with each street and locality named therein.

The Introductory and General Review present a diary of the interesting local events of the year, brief notices of Schools, public and private, Benevolent Associations, Mining and other Incorporations and references to the different mechanical enterprises in operation at the present time in this city, together with other subjects worthy of special mention and historical data of present interest, well calculated to make the book a valuable work of reference to future generations. But the most interesting features of this department are valuable contributions on the Population of the City; Meteorology and Climate of San Francisco from 1851 to 1874, by Henry Gibbons, Sen., M.D.; the Current History and progress of the City, 1873–74 by Thomas Magee, Esq.; Hospitals, public and private, by Henry Gibbons, Jr., M.D.; the Progress and Present condition of the Public Schools, by Prof. E. Knowlton, etc.; also, a statement of the operations of the Benevolent and other Societies of the city during the past year; a review of the manufacturing interests of the city, and a statement of the number of buildings within the city limits.

The compiler again respectfully tenders his acknowledgments for the prompt co-operation extended by the different public officers, and other gentlemen who have been applied to for information for the work. To his numerous friends for their liberal patronage, and to Messrs. Francis & Valentine, by whom the typographical department was executed, he would especially tender his thanks. The sixteenth volume of the SAN FRANCISCO DIRECTORY will be issued in March, 1875.

The elements of that which is enduring and that which is transitory must be... an important place in this connection. We undoubtedly have had years in which the ... nt prosperity was much greater; but those years and that prosperity was due, in many ... either in whole or in part, to causes that were purely speculative—often to the verge o... ...ling—or to industries that were neither lasting or reliable. The progress of the past ... however, had nothing in it either speculative or unreliable. It was a progress to which ... an be no retrogression, because it was advancement all along the line of agriculture, m... manufacturing, and healthy city growth, as well as increase of population and develop... general resources.

Despite the want of late rains in March, April, and May—which greatly reduced t... rops in the San Joaquin Valley—and the heavy frosts in the early portion of April—... lighted the grape blossoms and greatly reduced the grape yield—the crops of 1873 pro... e exceptionally large. Of gold and silver the product of 1873 exceeded that of the pre... ear by nearly $10,000,000. The dividends from the mines were in excess of those of 18... early $6,000,000. Of wheat, wool, and other home products over $10,000,000 worth m... ere exported in 1873 than in the previous year.

The increase of home manufactures and population is shown by the fact that, while ... ines yielded $10,000,000 more in 1873 than in 1872, we sent away nearly $2,000,000 less ... easure. The gain in population was equally gratifying. The total arrivals from all quart... xceeded the total departures by thirty-four thousand seven hundred and forty-seven. The arrivals by that route were composed mostly ... echanics, farmers, working girls, and invalids. The latter class came to California to en... e salubrious climate of our Southern Coast. That portion of the State is now almost u... ersally recognized as one of the most desirable and beneficial resorts in the world for co... umptives and other invalids suffering from atrophic diseases. The rush thither is so gre... at the hotels and private boarding houses in Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, Anaheim, Sa... iego, and San Bernardino are now nearly always full to overflowing at all seasons of th...

It is no exaggeration to say that the tourists who com... e one, and the invalids who come to be benefited by a residence in the other, spend $1,... early in the State, and the numbers coming, and the amounts they will spend, a... creasing rapidly.

The city and State are also making satisfactory progress in the culture of influence... th refining and elevating in a social and aesthetic sense. The State University ... ost liberally endowed. The reputations of several of its professors are national, ... lvantages offered by the institution have been placed within the reach of the children ... limited, no less than of those of ample, means. The era when people looked upon ... d State as places of temporary sojourn in which to make money has passed away; s and houses of a character altogether unknown in the earlier history of the have for five years past been rapidly increasing—not only in this city but Land, too, is being turned to more profitable and reliable uses than con- wheat-raising, under a slovenly system of plow-scratching that has been dig- really unworthy of, the name of farming. The progress in this direction is ans as rapid as is desirable; but the conviction is gradually gaining ground that enerally conducted in the past in this State, is unreliable, and but too frequently while, as a means of soil impoverishment, it could not be surpassed.

he matters here referred to relate more to the State than the city, yet they have ortant bearing upon the growth and prosperity of the latter, and, in that connection, ropriate mention.

Real Estate, New Buildings, Etc.

L ESTATE IN SAN FRANCISCO.—Three thousand one hundred and thirty-four real-estate ere made in the City and County of San Francisco in the year 1873. The total value land sold, with the dwellings and buildings thereon, was $12,383,752. Real estate was ll of sale from the time of the completion of the Pacific Railroad until the beginning year 1873. Prices and sales have both greatly improved since then—especially since ber last. Business property has also greatly improved in price, especially on that por- California Street lying between Kearny and Battery streets, and on those portions of mery and Sansom streets which lie between California and Market streets. The phant sales of business property made recently were as follows: North side California xty-seven and one half feet west of Sansom, forty by eighty in size, with three-story uilding, $150,000—$3,750 per front foot; gore-lot on Montgomery, Market, and Post , $300,000. The lot has a frontage on Montgomery of eighteen and one quarter feet one hundred and twenty-nine and one quarter feet on Market, and one hundred and ten n Post by ninety-seven and one half on the western line. There is only some six sand nine hundred square feet in the lot; the price paid was, therefore, at the rate of $43.50 square foot. Land on the best inside residence streets of the city, distant ten to twenty utes' walk from the business center, is now worth $150 to $350 per front foot, $225 being ut the average. Homestead lots in locations suitable for people of limited means can still ought for $800 to $1,500 each, and are distant one and a half to two miles from the busi- s center of the city. The average value of each real estate sale made in the City and nty of San Francisco in 1870 was $3,342; in 1871 it was $3,167; in 1872, $3,500, and in 3 each sale had an average value of $3,951. The value of the real estate of the city and nty is now at least $10,000,000 more than it was at the close of 1872.

BUILDINGS ERECTED IN SAN FRANCISCO IN 1873 AND THOSE IN PROCESS OF ERECTION.— ring the year 1873 six hundred and seventy-one new brick and frame buildings, of all sses, were erected in San Francisco. Of these, ninety were of one story; five hundred and hree were of two stories; forty-two were of three stories, and six were of four stories. e, the majority were built between June and October. The total expenditures on these s was fully four million of dollars. During the intervening months the greatest in building operations prevailed, and it was frequently impossible to find mechanics. proportion of the new houses were of the very best class. The cloth-and-paper-house an Francisco passed away for ever about the year 1860. The houses which are now in point of solidity, roominess, and comfort, will compare favorably with those of large cities of the United States. As a rule, the finest private houses were erected Larkin, Franklin, Sutter, and Turk streets, although the hills above and west of alley, and Fillmore and Turk streets, were also in favor. The buildings on the best streets of a great city generally undergo three transformations. The first era is that and common brick-front buildings; the second is that of larger and more commo- ildings of the same class, with stone-dressed fronts, and an occasional one entirely of he third era is that of stately stone and marble structures, of the most solid, ornamental ly class. PROGRESS OF THE CITY,

THE City of San Francisco was, for the first time, incorporated by the Legislature in May, 1850, the organization of the county having been effected in the month previous, by the election of a Sheriff and other officers, thus establishing two distinct systems of government. The Consolidation Act took effect on the first day of July, 1856. Under its stringent provisions, our municipal affairs have been administered with energy and fidelity, and a thorough reform has resulted. The enormous outlay consequent on the dual system of government has been entirely abolished or seriously reduced, while the checks upon lavish expenditure were so well devised as to defy evasion, and the contraction of debts has been inhibited. The financial history of all this is sufficiently indicated in the exhibit* of the Aggregated Annual Expenditures of the City and County of San Francisco from 1850 to 1874—since the first legislative organization of the government—exclusive of the sums paid in liquidation of the principal and interest of the bonded debts:

The amount absolutely collected on for the last four years is much less than the aggregate valuations. For the year 1868–69, the delinquent list amounted to $429,709 on an assessed value of $13,500,000; in 1869–70 to $556,320 on $18,062,340; in 1870–71 to $170,603 on $,996,584; in 1871–72 to $237,787 on $8,006,311, and in 1872–73, $1,182,115 on $78,807,648.

* For table of Municipal Expenditures from 1850 to 1865, see SAN FRANCISCO DIRECTORY for 1866, page 10.
† Exclusive of Mortgages, which amounted in 1869-70 to near $16,000,000, now held to be exempt from taxation.
‡ The large increase in the value of real and personal property, 1872-73, was occasioned by the operation of the New Code.
§ Solvent debts, including those secured by mortgage are not included, held to be exempt by the Supreme Court of the State.

PACIFIC COAST BUSINESS DIRECTORY contains Addresses of over 50,000 Merchants.

The Income of the ÆTNA INS. CO. of Hartford amounts to nearly $17,000 per Day, Henry Carlton Jr., Agent, 14 Merchants' Exchange, S. F.

KENNEDY'S INSURANCE AGENCY, Fire, Marine, and Life, represents $12,000,000

The large delinquent list of 1872–73 is due to the fact that many of the heaviest taxpayers of the city and county questioned the legality of the levy and commenced suit thereon. In addition to the amount delinquent of 1872–73, $331,675 were paid under protest.

The value of the real and personal property of the City and County of San Francisco, October, 1873, was assessed as follows: Real Estate, $130,871,138; Improvements, $37,182,680; Personal Property, $36,228,884; Money, 7,925,833; Total, $212,208,535. The total value of the real and personal property of the State of California, 1872–73, is $637,232,823. Total State tax levied, $3,175,480, of which San Francisco was assessed forty-five per cent.

Population of San Francisco, March 1, 1874.

The following estimate of the population of this city has been prepared from careful investigation made during the progress of the canvass for the present volume and other reliable data; and in directing attention thereto, the compiler believes that the aggregate presented is a fair approximation to the actual number:

White Males over twenty-one	65,092
" Females over eighteen (estimated)	39,100
" Males under twenty-one (estimated)	39,611
" Females under eighteen (estimated)	34,367
" Males, names refused, and foreigners not taken in the canvass (estimated)	1,600
Chinese, Male and Female	14,500
Colored, Male and Female	1,600
Total permanent population	195,870
To which should be added a large element of our population known as "floating," which consists of: 1st. Transient boarders, etc., at hotels, boarding houses, etc. 2d. Soldiers at the fortifications in the harbor. 3d. Persons engaged in navigating the bay, who claim this city as their residence. 4th. Inmates of Alms House, Hospitals, and other charitable institutions, County Jail, etc. 5th. A large number of persons who have no permanent place of abode, together amounting to about	4,900
Total population, March 1, 1874	200,770

The estimate of the males over twenty-one in the above table is based upon the aggregate of names contained in the present volume, as follows: The number of references in the register of names is 74,556, of which 64,092 are male residents of this city. These figures are exclusive of a numerous list of names included in the Business Directory and the Appendix, containing the names of officers of societies, incorporations, etc., not obtained in the regular canvass, estimated at 1,000, making a total of 65,092. The two latter named departments of the Directory are compiled from information collected just previous to the publication of the work, and include many names not to be found in the regular list.

The number of females over eighteen is estimated at 39,100, upon the basis of the Federal Census of 1870. The number of females of all ages enumerated, as published in this city, amounts to 61,577, of which 23,261 are under fifteen years. According to the average of the Census throughout the United States, about sixteen per cent. of the number under fifteen (3,721) should be added thereto to represent the element between sixteen and eighteen, which would give an average as follows: Under eighteen, 26,982; eighteen and over, 34,595. The difference between the last-named figures (34,595) and those included in the table (39,100), amounting to 4,505, will not be considered an over-estimate for the increase since August, 1870.

The estimates of the males under twenty-one, and the females under eighteen, are based upon the figures of the School Census, June, 1873. According to these returns the number of children of fifteen and under, at that date, was 54,469; increase to March 1, 1874, (estimated 4,500. Total, 58,969, estimated as follows: Males, 29,342; females, 29,627. To these should be added thirty-five per cent. (the average of the Census throughout the United States) for the males between sixteen and twenty, both inclusive, and sixteen per cent. for the females between fifteen and eighteen. This will give the following result: Males, fifteen and under, 29,342; between sixteen and twenty-one, 10,269. Total under twenty-one, 39,611. Females, fifteen and under, 29,627; between fifteen and eighteen, 4,740. Total under eighteen, 34,367.

The remainder of the data in our estimate explains itself, and to those who are acquainted with the different elements referred to therein, the figures relating thereto will not be considered over-estimated.

The aggregate of the present year (200,770), as compared with that of last year (188,323), exhibits a gain of 12,447, or about seven per cent., a much greater increase than has taken place for the same period for several years past. The number of names enumerated in the register of the present volume, exhibits an increase of eight per cent. over that of last year, an unmistakable evidence of the rapid growth of the city during the past twelve months.

For the purpose of reference, we republish from the SAN FRANCISCO DIRECTORY for 1871, the figures of the Census of the City and County of San Francisco, as compiled in this city; also the official table of the Census Bureau at Washington. The totals of the latter differ materially from those contained in the former; for instance, the aggregate population is given at 149,473; the colored population at 1,341, and the Chinese, 12,018. The native population numbers 75,753; foreign, 73,720.

the United States) have alone advanced to the third era; San Francisco has entered on the second. Old, small, cramped, and plain brick buildings, erected on our best business streets, between 1849 and 1859, have become superannuated, and are gradually being supplanted by more stately, light, roomy, and ornamental structures.

The most important building now in course of construction here is the Palace Hotel, owned by William Sharon. It will have a frontage of two hundred and seventy-five feet on Market Street (between Second and Third) by a depth and front on Montgomery Street South of three hundred and forty feet. It will be six stories high, and will cost about $600,000. The new building to be erected on west side Montgomery, between Pine and Summer streets, will cost $250,000, and will be known as the Nevada Block. Flood & O'Brien are the owners of the land. R. C. Johnson, the iron merchant, owns a large lot on Sutter Street, above Montgomery, on which he is about to erect a stately brick building, to cost $150,000. The Mechanics' Institute have secured a long lease, on nominal terms, from A. B. McCreary, of a lot of land on Market, Eighth, and Mission streets, two hundred and seventy-five by five hundred and fifty in size. A new Mechanics' Fair building, to cost $50,000 to $70,000, will soon be erected on this land, and a fresh opportunity will thus be afforded for the display of California mechanical, artistic, agricultural, and metallurgical skill, industry, and progress. The new United States Government buildings, on the lot opposite and west of the Post-office and Custom House, are progressing slowly but satisfactorily. The Congressional appropriation for the construction of these buildings was $408,000, of which but a comparatively small amount is yet expended. Much dissatisfaction has recently been expressed at the heavy cost of the new City Hall, and also at the unsuitable location of it on a site so far distant from the city center as that near Market Street, between Seventh and Ninth. In consequence of this dissatisfaction, the work will, for the next two years, be confined to the completion of contracts already entered into. The expenditure allowed under this legislative restriction is $750,000. The Board of City Hall Commissioners has been abolished, and the work referred to is to be carried on under the control of the Board of Supervisors. One of the largest and finest markets in the United States is now being erected by Charles R. Peters on the two fifty-vara lots on the southeast corner of Sutter and Dupont streets. The cost will be $75,000. This market will soon be ready for occupancy. A new and stylish frame Amphitheater was recently erected on the southeast corner of New Montgomery and Mission streets, by Mr. John Wilson, the circus manager. The obstructions to the opening of Montgomery Avenue—from Montgomery to Stockton streets at least—have now about been removed, and a large number of new buildings are immediately to be erected on the line of the new street. A new and large brick building is now being erected, by John Parrott, on the northeast corner of Sacramento and Front streets, on the lot sixty feet square. A new three-story brick building, to be divided into elegant stores, is now being erected on the northeast corner of Post and Kearny streets, on leased ground. The gore-lot, at the junction of Market, Montgomery, and Post streets (recently sold at the extreme price of $300,000), is soon to be improved by the erection of a brick building and stores, which will cost $100,000. The calculation of the owner is that he can rent the building for $5,000 per month. A large, new brick building is to be erected by James W. Burnham & Co. on the lot adjoining on Market Street, on the west. The most of the block bounded by Market, Geary, Kearny, and Dupont streets is owned by one person. The property has long been under lease, and is now covered with old frame buildings. These leases will soon expire, and as first-class buildings are now a necessity on such valuable land, it is almost certain that such structures will soon be erected there. A new four-story frame and brick building, to cost $75,000, is now being erected on the gore-lot at the junction of Market, Mason, and Turk streets. A new building, to cost $70,000, is soon to be erected on the southeast corner of Pacific and Kearny streets. A commodious three-story brick building is now being erected upon the lot (sixty by seventy in size), northeast corner of Kearny and Sutter streets.

The above is, of course, necessarily, only a partial list of the buildings projected on our best business streets. Everywhere the old buildings of the past are being torn down to make room for costly, modern, substantial, and ornamental structures. These changes clearly indicate the growth of the city, the great increase of its business, and the enhancement of rents and real-estate values. Banking, insurance, and other property, on California Street, and on Sansom and Montgomery streets, contiguous thereto, has greatly advanced in price, and the buildings there are generally very fine. The new London and San Francisco Bank building would be an ornament to any city. It is situated on the northwest corner of California and Leidesdorff streets. Another new bank building is projected on the north side of California Street, west of Battery. The building formerly owned by an insurance company, on California Street, adjoining the Bank of California, recently changed hands. The building is now being remodeled.

In few respects has San Francisco increased more within the past seven years than in first-class private residences. That of William Sharon (not yet completed), on Sutter Street, above Powell; that of R. C. Johnson, southwest corner of O'Farrell and Leavenworth streets; that of William C. Ralston, on Pine, west of Leavenworth, being especially noticeable and ornamental. Leland Stanford, President of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, owns most of the block bounded by Powell, Mason, California, and Pine streets. He intends soon to erect on it a mansion which will cost at least $100,000. Charles Crocker, one of the managers of the same company, last year purchased a lot, two hundred and seventy-five by one hundred and thirty-seven and one half feet, on the northwest corner of California and Taylor streets, on which, on his return from China, it is understood he will erect a large and costly mansion. This is but an outline of what has been done or projected in the building line in this city during the past year. There has seldom been such a dearth of houses as existed here all of last year. Despite the unusually large number of new buildings erected, the supply was not nearly equal to the demand. In consequence of this fact, the cheapness of money and lumber, the unprecedented prosperity promised from large crops and a fruitful yield from the mines, there is no doubt but that more buildings and dwellings will be erected this year in San Francisco than in any previous year in its history since 1849 or 1850. The total cost of the buildings now under construction will not be less than $3,000,000, not to speak at all of several hundreds of other dwellings, to cost from $2,000 to $6,000 each, which will shortly be built. Those mechanics, therefore, who can not find work in the Atlantic States may confidently calculate on finding employment if they will direct their course westward.

NUMBER OF BUILDINGS.—The number of buildings in the city and county is estimated at twenty-two thousand six hundred, of which four thousand two hundred are of brick. The Federal Census of 1870 returns the number at twenty-two thousand two hundred and sixty-six. (See Article on Population, page 13.)

VALUE OF CHURCH PROPERTY, ETC., IN SAN FRANCISCO.—Some one has said that capital seeking investment in a city will look to the manner in which it is provided with churches, schools, colleges, and charitable institutions as one of the true tests of the progress, stability, morality, and law-abiding character of the people resident in it. In this connection San Francisco will bear favorable comparison with older, less isolated, and, therefore, more favored cities. The following table shows the present value of the land and cost of the buildings owned by the various religious sects of this city:

Catholic Churches, Convents, Colleges, Asylums, Hospitals, etc.	$3,250,000
Presbyterian Church property	500,000
Hebrew Church property	405,477
Episcopalian Church property	380,500
Methodist Church property	275,985
Congregational Church property	265,000
Baptist Church property	118,750
Lutheran Church property	80,000
Unitarian Church property	165,000
Total miscellaneous property owned by all the religious sects of San Francisco (exclusive of the Catholic), Young Men's Christian Association, Ladies' Protective and Relief Society, St. Luke's Hospital, City College, Chinese Mission houses, Protestant Orphan Asylum, Bible Society, University Mound College, etc., etc.	750,000
Grand total	$6,190,712

THE LEADING HOTELS, ETC., OF SAN FRANCISCO.—San Francisco is not surpassed by any city in the United States, and probably by very few in the world, in the size, number, and excellence of its hotels. There are seven of them, in addition to the new Palace Hotel, now in course of erection. It will be the largest and most costly of them. The seven hotels alluded to have accommodations for two thousand one hundred and fifty guests. The value of the land on which they stand is nearly $3,000,000; the buildings cost $1,365,000, and their furniture nearly $825,000. The rents paid by their landlords is from $1,000 to $4,000 per month. The largest of our present hotels has accommodations for four hundred guests. Their rates of board are from $2 to $3 per day. The number of hotels of all grades is sixty-five; of buildings devoted in whole or in part to lodgings, five hundred and twenty; occupied as boarding and lodging houses, three hundred and eighty.

RATES OF INTEREST AT THE SAVINGS BANKS, ETC.—The ten savings banks of San Francisco had, in the beginning of the present year, fifty-one thousand eight hundred and seven depositors, and deposits amounting to $47,362,555, or an average of about $910 to each depositor. These banks loan mostly on city and country real estate securities of the safest and most productive character. Their rates of interest range from eight to nine and a half per cent. per annum on city loans, and ten to eleven per cent. on country loans.

United States Mint and Post-Office.

THE UNITED STATES MINT, MINING, ETC.—The San Francisco Mint is no longer, as formerly denominated, a "branch" mint. By the Coinage Act of 1873 it was rendered independent of, because it has become far more important than, the old parent Mint at Philadelphia, to which ours has heretofore, officially, been but supplementary. During the year 1873 the following classes of coin were turned out of the Mint here: One million forty thousand six hundred double eagles—value, $20,812,000; twelve thousand single eagles—value, $120,000; thirty-one thousand half eagles—value, $155,000; twenty-seven thousand quarter eagles—value, $67,500. Total number of gold coins made, one million one hundred and ten thousand six hundred—total value, $21,154,500. Silver Coins: Seven hundred American dollars—value, $700; seven hundred and three thousand trade dollars—value, $703,000; two hundred and thirty-three thousand half dollars—value, $116,500; one hundred and fifty-six thousand quarter dollars—value, $39,000; four hundred and thirty-five thousand dimes—value, $45,500; three hundred and twenty-four thousand half dimes—value, $16,200. Total number of silver coins, one million eight hundred and seventy-one thousand seven hundred—total value, $920,900. Combined gold and silver pieces of all denominations coined in 1873, two million nine hundred and eighty-one thousand three hundred. Total combined value, $22,075,400. The total coinage of 1873 shows an increase of $5,727,956 over that of 1872. The importance and capacity of the San Francisco Mint is greatly restricted by the small and unsuitable building in which its operations are now conducted. The New Mint, a spacious and stately structure occupying the lot, two hundred and seventy-five feet square, on the corner of Fifth and Mission streets, will soon be completed and occupied. When finished, the business of the Pacific Coast, in connection with coinage, will be greatly facilitated. The San Francisco Mint is already the most important in the United States. The business of mining for the precious metals, next to agriculture, is the most important industry on the coast; yet, in twenty years hence, twenty mines will be developed and worked where now there is but one. This prediction can be made with safety, without any allowance for new discoveries in the interim. The veins and lodes already discovered and partially tested will, of themselves, suffice to cause this increase; while, remembering the vast districts in California, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, Idaho, and Montana, which are yet both undeveloped and unexplored, positive assurance is given that mining on this coast, vast as its present proportions are, is yet but in its infancy. The value of this fact to the agricultural and manufacturing interests is very great. In no portion of the world do the great industries of farming, mining, and manufacturing become of greater value, or act as more stable supports to each other than in California.

States that of San Francisco takes rank as about the third or fourth in point of importance. This position is due, not only to the local business transacted, but also to the fact that the San Francisco office is the point of distribution for a great portion of the European open and closed mails in transit to Asia, Australia, etc. These mails are received per overland railroad, and depart hence, by American steamers, for the countries named, monthly and semi-monthly. One hundred and eleven persons are on the pay-roll of the Post-office here, of which number forty-two are indoor employés, thirty-three are postal clerks and railroad and stage route agents, and thirty-six are employed in the distribution and collection of written and printed mail matter throughout the city. The system of iron postal boxes placed at convenient distances all over the corporate limits of the city is of great benefit and public convenience, facilitating rapid delivery, and saving the journey heretofore necessary to the General Post-office. The city is indebted to Postmaster N. B. Stone and his predecessor Colonel Coey for the introduction of the public convenience referred to. The present able and efficient Post-master (Mr. Stone), is also to be credited with the introduction of many needed reforms in our local postal administration since he has held the office. Among others, his persistent efforts have been the means of introducing a new style of post-office box and lock, which greatly increases the available space for such conveniences, and the number of boxes before in use, as well as adding a greater rental from the extra box-holders accommodated. These boxes are so constructed that the opening of any of them, by means of false keys, is impossible. There are now two thousand three hundred and sixty-five of these lock-boxes in our Post-office. The money-order system, adopted a few years since, has been found to work well, is of great public service, and is extensively availed of by all classes of our population. The sum of $615,579.46 has, by this means, been sent to various portions of the world, through the San Francisco Post-office in 1873. This domestic and international method of sending money abroad has the tendency to direct and facilitate emigration hither, especially by the persons thus receiving the postal drafts. The money-orders issued from other post-offices in the United States during the same time, and payable here, amounted to $591,484.40. The San Francisco Post-office is the depository for the money-order receipts of all the other post-offices of this coast under United States jurisdiction. These various offices deposited $1,106,962 with the San Francisco Post-office during the year 1873.

The Central Pacific and other Railroads.

NUMBER OF EMPLOYÉS, THEIR PAY-ROLL, THEIR FREIGHT STATISTICS, ETC.—During the year 1873 the annexed railroads brought to, and carried away from, San Francisco the appended number of tons of freight of all kinds :

Name of Company.	Received at S. F., tons.	Sent from S. F., tons.
By Central Pacific R. R. Co	149,612	149,287
By Southern Pacific R. R. Co	91,944	37,862
By California Pacific R. R. and Steamers	51,516	53,140
Grand Totals	293,072	240,289

The above statement of the Central Pacific Railroad does not include freight received at and shipped from Oakland. The business of all our railroads is increasing very rapidly. The unfinished lines are not being extended as rapidly as could be wished, owing to the difficulty of negotiating railroad bonds in Europe. This difficulty was, in part, due to the late commercial and financial panic, and, in part, to the hostility of a portion of the press, and the recent unsuccessful efforts to reduce railroad fares and freights.

The Central Pacific Railroad Company now employs, in San Francisco, Oakland, and on the ferry steamers, eight hundred and sixty-six persons, in all capacities, whose aggregate monthly salaries amount to $76,396, or about $920,000 per year. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company employs two hundred and fifty men, whose monthly wages amounts to $17,000, or about $204,000 per year. The California Pacific Railroad employs on its steamers two hundred and eighty-seven men in San Francisco, whose aggregate monthly wages account is now $9,220, or about $110,500 per year. The other employés of that company, resident here, number twenty-four, whose monthly salaries amount to $4,000, or a total of $48,000 per year.

FARNSWORTH & CLARK furnish Safe and Reliable Insurance against Fire.

C. P. VAN SCHAACK & CO., 708, 712, 714, and 716 Kearny Street, Trunks and Valises.

These figures show that the three companies above named employ here and in Oakland, a total of one thousand four hundred and twenty-seven men, whose aggregate yearly salaries or wages amounts to $1,282,500, or an average of seventy-five dollars per month to each man employed. We frequently hear how the railroad has destroyed this or that small business which flourished prior to its advent, but we think these figures prove that it has destroyed in the atom only to restore in the lump, and that on a much more enduring, extended, and independent basis. It must be remembered too that, as yet, we have only begun to experience the benefits of railroad communication, and the consequent development of the mineral, agricultural, and manufacturing interests which it fosters.

Street Railroads.

THE HORSE-CAR RAILROADS OF SAN FRANCISCO.—The multiplication and extension of lines of street railroad, when reasonable fares are charged, has a direct and most potent effect in assisting a city to build up and extend its suburbs. This is especially true of United States' cities in general, but of San Francisco in particular. The annexed statistics show that, comparatively speaking, this city ranks second to none in the Union in point of easy, rapid, cheap, and plentiful means of street locomotion by horse-cars. Out of the eight street railroad companies of the city, but six (Market Street, Potrero and Bay View, Central, Clay Street Hill, City, and North Beach and Mission) have furnished us with the number of passengers carried by them during the year 1873. Upon this particular branch of their business the managers of the other two companies (Omnibus and Sutter Street) are disposed to be stupidly reticent. We give estimates of them. With these exceptions, all other particulars are officially given.

CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY.—This company owns two (double track) main lines of railroad. One of the lines begins at the junction of Eighth and Brannan streets and runs to the corner of Front and Vallejo streets, a distance of two and seven eighths miles. The other main line starts from Taylor Street, between Eddy and Turk, and runs to the junction of Post Street and Cemetery Avenue, Lone Mountain. The distance of this line is two and one quarter miles. Total length of both lines owned and now operated by this company, inclusive of sidings, etc., five miles. A branch of this road is in process of construction from the corner of Turk and Fillmore streets, via Turk, Devisadero, and Fell streets, to the new Golden Gate Park entrance, a distance of one mile. This branch will be completed and opened for traffic as soon as the Park presents sufficient attractions to induce travel enough to warrant it. As the number of visitors to the Park is rapidly increasing, and the embellishment of the grounds being pushed forward with energy, the opening of this branch of the Central Road to permanent travel can not long be delayed. Twenty-two cars are in daily use on both lines of this company—sixteen on the line running to the City Front, and six on the Lone Mountain line. The company has eighty employés on its pay-roll, and owns and works two hundred and fifteen horses. The conductors and drivers, one to each car, are paid at the rate of $2.50 to $2.75 per day. Four tickets are sold on this road for twenty-five cents, passengers receiving a transfer ticket, when desired, to ride the whole length of the road, by change of cars, on either line. The total number of passengers carried by this road, in 1873, was two million six hundred and seventy thousand one hundred and sixty-two. Its gross earnings during the same period amounted to $171,610.

CITY RAILROAD COMPANY (Woodward's).—The cars of this line are small and light ones, drawn by one horse, no conductors are employed on them, the fare being deposited in a patent box, into which each passenger drops his fare upon entering the car. Communication is held with the driver, and change made by him, through an aperture in front of the car. The company own and operate one main and one branch line. The former runs from the corner of New Montgomery and Market streets, via Mission Street, to Twenty-sixth Street, a distance of three miles. The branch line runs from the corner of Bush and Dupont streets, via Dupont, Market, Fifth, and Mission, to Woodward's Gardens, corner of Fourteenth Street, a distance of nearly two miles. The company's books show that eighty men, in all, are employed by it.

ÆTNA INSURANCE COMPANY, of HARTFORD, was established in 1819, and is the largest Fire Insurance Company in the country.

PACIFIC COAST BUSINESS DIRECTORY circulates throughout the Pacific Coast.

KENNEDY'S INSURANCE AGENCY, Fire, Marine, and Life, represents $12,000,000.

The number of regular cars running daily is twenty-six, and the number of horses owned is two hundred. The drivers on this line receive $2.50 per day. Five tickets can be purchased for twenty-five cents (including transfers). The total length of the City Railroad, double track, is four miles. The earnings of the road, for 1873, amounted to $130,000. The total number of passengers carried by it during the same period was three million five hundred thousand.

MARKET STREET RAILROAD COMPANY.—This line is owned and operated by the Southern Pacific Railroad Co. It begins on Market Street, between Spear and Main, and runs, via Market and Valencia, to Twenty-sixth Street, a distance of three and two thirds miles. The Hayes Valley branch of this road begins at the junction of Market and Hayes streets, and runs, via Hayes, Laguna, and other streets, to the corner of O'Farrell and Devisadero streets, a distance of nearly two miles. It is, we believe, the intention of this company to extend the Hayes Valley Branch to the Golden Gate Park before long. Twenty-three cars are daily run upon the main and branch lines of this company. Two hundred and nine horses and eighty men are owned and employed by it. Its conductors and drivers are paid $2.50 per day, and five tickets, including Hayes Valley transfer, are given for twenty-five cents. The number of passengers carried by this road, in 1873, was two million seven hundred and eighty-six thousand nine hundred and fifty-five, and the earnings amounted to $130,253.

POTRERO AND BAY VIEW RAILROAD COMPANY.—This line begins at the junction of Berry and Fourth streets, and runs (via Fourth and Kentucky streets and Railroad Avenue) to Thirty-fourth Avenue, South San Francisco. It is also owned and controlled by the Southern Pacific Railroad Co. Its total length is nearly three and a half miles. Fifty-eight horses and nine cars are owned by the company. An average of thirty-three men, in all, are employed by this road. Its conductors and drivers are paid $2.50 per day. Four fares on this line cost twenty-five cents; no transfer tickets are issued by it. The number of passengers carried over this route in 1873 was five hundred and thirty-seven thousand five hundred and seventy-eight, and the total gross earnings in the same time amounted to $33,984. The greater portion of this road crosses Mission Bay by means of a series of substantial trestle-work bridges. As the Southern Pacific Railroad Company contemplate a change in their present trunk line from Valencia Street to the shore-line of Mission Bay, the latter will be gradually filled in and the present means of reaching South San Francisco by long wooden bridges will be done away with. The completion of such an undertaking will materially enhance the property and general interests of the Potrero and South San Francisco. This locality is destined in the near future to become the great ship-building and manufacturing center of the city.

NORTH BEACH AND MISSION RAILROAD COMPANY.—This company runs two main lines of double-track railroad. The one runs from the junction of Fourth and Berry streets (via Fourth, Kearny, etc.) to the junction of Francisco and Mason streets, a distance of two and seven eighths miles; the other line starts from the junction of California and Montgomery streets and runs to the corner of Folsom and Twenty-sixth streets, a distance of three and three quarters miles. Total length of both lines (double-track), about six miles. Thirty cars are run regularly every day on both lines. The company owns two hundred and fifty horses, and employs in all one hundred and thirty men. Conductors and drivers are paid $2.50 per day. Five tickets are sold for twenty-five cents (including transfers). The number of passengers carried by this road during the past year was four million two hundred and seventy-four thousand seven hundred and two. The gross earnings of the road in the same time were $213,735.

CLAY STREET HILL RAILROAD COMPANY.—This road has been completed and regularly running since October, 1873. Inclusive of that operated by steam and horse-power, its total length (double-track) is two and two thirds miles. The initial point of the road is at the junction of Kearny and Clay, and its terminus is at Chestnut and Larkin streets. From Kearny to Leavenworth, up a grade of almost three hundred and seventeen feet to the half mile, the cars are operated by means of an endless steel-wire rope, one inch in diameter, running in a subway, and in no way impeding the travel of ordinary vehicles. The motive power is furnished by an engine of thirty-five horse-power, situated at the top of the grade. By means of "gripping-clamps" attached to a "dummy" in front of the car, which reach the running rope through a center groove in the subway, the latter is seized or abandoned when necessary to propel or stop the car. When stopped, the car is kept stationary by a brake, which acts directly on the face of the rails; this brake is operated by the conductor when the holding clamps release their hold upon the revolving rope. When the car reaches the top of the hill, the dummy preceding it is removed, and the car continues on to the end of the road with horses attached. Both mechanically and pecuniarily this road is a satisfactory success to its managers. It is their intention before long to extend westward that portion of the line operated by the wire-rope (via Clay and First Avenue) to the Golden Gate Park. Ten cars and twenty-two horses are at present in use on the road, and the number of employés is thirty-three. The number of passengers carried for the eight months the road has been in operation is given at the rate of one million ninety-five thousand per annum. Five tickets are sold for twenty-five cents.

Omnibus Railroad Company.—There are two main double-track lines owned by this company. One of them has its initial point at the junction of Fourth and Berry streets; this line runs (via Montgomery, Sansom, Third, and other streets) to the junction of Powell and Bay streets, a distance of three miles. The other main line starts from the corner of Montgomery and Jackson streets, and runs (via Montgomery, Third, Howard, and other streets) to the junction of Howard with Twenty-sixth Street, a distance of three and a half miles. By last year's returns, eighteen cars were daily run on the former (North and South Beach) road, and twelve on the latter (Howard Street and Mission Dolores) line. At that time the company owned two hundred and eighty horses, and employed, in all capacities, one hundred and twenty-five men. Conductors and drivers receive $2.50 per day each. Five tickets are sold for twenty-five cents. Of the number of horses owned by the company twelve are daily used as "tow-horses" in the ascent of the steep grade on Jackson Street. The number of passengers carried in 1873 was about four million six hundred and seventy thousand, and the gross earnings about $233,500.

Sutter Street Railroad Company.—In 1872 this company had one main and three branch lines. The trunk road started from the junction of Broadway and Polk streets (via Polk, Sutter, and Battery) and terminated at the junction of Broadway and Davis streets, on the City Front, a distance of two and one third miles. The first branch extended from the corner of Sutter and Larkin (via Larkin and Ninth) to the junction of Ninth and Mission streets, a distance of seven eighths of a mile. The second branch extended from the corner of Bush and Polk streets (via Bush, Fillmore, and California streets and Cemetery Avenue) to Geary Street and Cemetery Avenue, a distance of one and seven eighths miles. The main line and these two branches are double-track roads. The Fort Point, Presidio, and Harbor View branch of this road forms a junction with the main line at its Polk Street terminus (corner of Broadway), and runs out to Harbor View, on the Bay shore, a distance of three miles. This is a single-track, the cars passing each other by means of sidings diverging from the main line at regular intervals. The total length of the Sutter Street Railroad (trunk line and branches) is eight and a quarter miles. In 1872 this company owned one hundred and eighty horses and nineteen cars. It then employed seventy-five men in all. Conductors and drivers are paid $2.50 per day. Four tickets only for twenty-five cents, including transfers on all branches but the Presidio, is the rate charged. The number of passengers carried on this road in 1873, was about one million seven hundred and fifty thousand, and its gross earnings about $113,750.

The publication of the foregoing facts may be taken as a fair index of the rapid growth of San Francisco in all directions. None but large and growing cities have so many horse-car lines, employ so many men and horses, or carry so many passengers. The value of our street-car lines can hardly be over-estimated in causing building and settlement in suburban districts, and as an aid to increase in real-estate values. If it were possible to blot out the street-car lines of the city, property in the suburbs would immediately be shorn of half its value. It is certainly within bounds to say that, in such event, a reduction of fully $20,000,000 would occur in the value of that class of property. The total length of all the street-car lines in the city (double-track) is about forty-three miles.

Steamship Lines.

THE PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY—OUR TRADE WITH ASIA, ETC.—It is unnecessary to enter into a detailed review of the past of this great corporation. Its history and that of the city and State, are, in many respects, interwoven. The chief events of its existence are of national as well as local significance. With the exception of one English company (the Peninsular and Oriental), the Pacific Mail Steamship Company is the most important in the Anglo-Asiatic world. A few statistics as to its present condition and prospects is, therefore, sufficient for all purposes of this summary. The number of steamships owned or chartered by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company on its various deep-sea and coast routes, is as follows: San Diego and coast route, four steamships, of four thousand and six tons; Panama route, seven steamships, of sixteen thousand eight hundred and seventy-six tons; in the Central American trade, etc., five steamships, of five thousand six hundred and thirty-nine tons; on the China and Japan route, six steamships, of twenty-two thousand three hundred and eighty-two tons; running between Yokohama and Shanghae, via Japanese Inland Sea ports, four steamships, of seven thousand eight hundred and eighteen tons; running between Yokohama, Hakodate, Matsumai, and other northern Japanese ports, one steamship, of seven hundred and ninety-one tons; engaged in harbor duty in San Francisco, one steamship, of one hundred and sixty-eight tons. The Nebraska, Dakota, and Moses Taylor (five thousand six hundred and thirty-nine tons), are laid up at the company's works at Benicia. This makes a total of thirty-one vessels, of sixty-three thousand three hundred and nineteen tons, at present in use in Pacific Coast and Asiatic waters. These figures are exclusive of the various vessels owned or chartered by the company in China and Japan, the statistics for which are not at present available. The number of tons of freight landed in this city by the company's steamships for the year 1873 was: From Panama, twenty-one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven tons; from China and Japan, twenty-nine thousand seven hundred and forty-seven tons. The export value of merchandise per the company's steamers for the same period was as follows: By way of the Isthmus of Panama, $1,140,000; to Japan; $715,658; to China, about $1,400,000. The treasure export by the company's vessels for 1873 was: To China, $6,335,353.50; to Japan, $2,206,157.12. The misfortunes which have attended this company for the past few years through marine disasters, mismanagement at headquarters, etc., still seem to follow it, so far as relates to the former of these causes. Despite of this, however, its carrying business has recently been greatly increased, and this in face of the opposition it meets with on the China and Japan route from the new China Trans-Pacific Steamship Company. The latter corporation proposes to run steamships monthly from this port to Yokohama and Hongkong. These vessels are to be of the largest size and most powerful capacity in point of speed. The trade between the Asiatic and American continents has recently increased so rapidly that there is now more room for and need of two lines to meet the demands of freight and passenger traffic than there was for one at the time the Pacific Mail Steamship Company inaugurated its line to China and Japan. The competition of the China Trans-Pacific Steamship Company, recently started, has materially reduced the rates of fare and freight between San Francisco and the centers of foreign trade in China and Japan. From Yokohama to San Francisco, by the Pacific Mail Company's steamers, the rate of passage is now only $150 in the chief saloon, and $85 in the steerage; from Nagasaki (the Long Branch of foreigners in Japan and Southern China) the fare has been reduced to $205 in the cabin, and $100 in the steerage; from Shanghai to San Francisco, through that beautiful lake of a thousand island-gems (the Inland Sea of Japan), the cabin fare is now but $280, and in the steerage but $100; from Hongkong to the western terminus of our overland railroad the rates of passage are only $200 in the saloon, and $100 in the steerage. Equally reasonable rates of fare (by reason of sharp competition) are charged from Swatow, Amoy, Foochow, Singapore, Penang, Calcutta, and other Asiatic cities in which foreigners congregate, until the visitor to the Atlantic States or Europe reaches a port from which to embark on one of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's homeward-bound vessels. The rates of fare above quoted, apply equally in going to Asia as in returning from it. Through tickets to or from all the places mentioned in Asia and Europe and Central and South America are sold according to a like schedule at all the agencies of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company in China, Japan, the settlements in the Straits of Sunda, Java, the Philippines, etc., all of which countries are crowded by Europeans and other foreigners, most of whom, when about to revisit their old homes, manifest an increasing desire to come by way of San Francisco and New York. Change from the route once passed over (that via the Red Sea and Brindisi), as well as the advantages gained in point of time and cost by taking the American route in preference to the tropical discomfort of that via the Isthmus of Suez, are the main motives commending themselves to these travelers.

China Trans-Pacific Steamship Company (limited).—Prominent among the indications from which to predict the commercial future of San Francisco, are the lines of ocean steamships making this port their headquarters. Within the past few months no less than two new and large steamship lines have been established to ply between this port and China and Australia. One of these lines, the China Trans-Pacific Steamship Company, with an initial capital of $2,500,000, has now on the route between this port and Hongkong and Yokohama, two powerful iron, Clyde-built screw steamships, of three thousand tons, and of 2,750 horse-power each. Another steamship, of the same class with these two, is almost completed for this company. and will soon be on her way out here to take her place in the line. The building of a fourth ship, of like tonnage and power, is immediately to be commenced at Renfrew, on the Clyde, by order of the Directors. When the latter is completed, the company will then have four steamers constantly running between this port and Asia, of an aggregate of 12,000 tons. As trade and the company's connections develop, other steamers of a similar class are to follow as rapidly as their construction will admit of. Each of these steamships will accommodate seventy-three saloon, and seven hundred and fifty steerage passengers. The service for the present is a monthly one, and the company contemplate at an early day the establishment of a branch line from Yokohama to Shanghai, via the Japanese Island sea ports, to connect with the steamers of the main line. The company also intend that their steamers will eventually call at Vancouver's Island on both outward and return voyages. As trade increases, their steamers will also enter into competition with both foreign and native craft in the coasting traffic of Chinese and Japanese waters. The present enormous trade between this port and China and Japan, with their reputed population of four hundred millions, makes increased first-class facilities for carrying on the same absolutely indispensable. Indeed, the day is not far distant when the demand for steam conveyance across the Pacific, as we have elsewhere stated, will fully equal that existing on the Atlantic. The competition of the China Trans-Pacific, and the Pacific Mail companies, not to speak of transient steamers and sailing vessels, will materially cheapen fares and freights between the two continents. The voyage between this port and Yokohama will now be shortened from its present average length of twenty-two to say nineteen days, making the inducement still greater to select the American route from Asia to Europe via San Francisco, in preference to the long and tedious tropical voyage through the Red Sea. From Yokohama to England, by way of this city, the voyage may now be accomplished in thirty-five or thirty-seven days, while the ordinary European route, via Suez, occupies forty-eight to fifty. By taking the American route, the journey between Hongkong or Shanghai and England can now be made in forty-five or forty-six days, while the Red Sea route consumes between fifty and fifty-five days. The route via San Francisco is also cheaper for passengers and freight than that traversed by the Peninsular and Oriental, the Messageries Maritimes, or any other European company. By the steamers of the China Trans-Pacific line, sailing hence about the middle of each month, the cabin passage to or from Yokohama is only $150; steerage, $85; to or from Hongkong, cabin, $200; steerage, $100. In order to facilitate passenger and freight traffic between the centers of foreign trade in Asia and our Atlantic Coast, the Central Pacific Railroad and the China Trans-Pacific Steamship Company have recently entered into an alliance. The steamers of the latter will hereafter discharge overland freight directly into the cars of the former. Extensive accommodations for this purpose are to be built at the foot of Second Street, a fact which will tend to materially enhance the value of property in that portion of the city. Through passenger tickets, by steamer and rail, are also issued by both companies. It is needless to reiterate that San Francisco will be the great entrepot for the traffic created by the rival lines of American-Asiatic steamships now existing, and of all others to follow in the future. The great American firm of Russell & Co., of Shanghai, and the well-known Oriental house of Macondray & Co., of this city, are the agents of the China Trans-Pacific Steamship Company at both ends of the route traversed by the vessels of this line.

AUSTRALASIAN AND AMERICAN MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY.—The establishment of this line of steamships during the past year supplies the want long felt for more regular and rapid communication between California and the Anglo-Australian colonies than that hitherto afforded by sailing vessels, however numerous. The similarity of pursuits between the people of those colonies and our own, and the greater comparative freedom from political and social trammels inherent to older States which is enjoyed by both, has caused the inauguration of this enterprise to be viewed with unanimous satisfaction by the public both in Australia and California. Five powerful, Clyde-built, iron screw steamships now constitute this company's fleet for the service of 1874 between San Francisco, New South Wales, and New Zealand. These are the Macgregor, of two thousand one hundred and sixty-seven tons; the Tartar, of two thousand two hundred and fifty-two tons; the Mongol, of two thousand two hundred and fifty-two tons; the Mikado, of three thousand and thirty tons, and the Cyphrenes, of two thousand tons. These five steamships are only chartered by the company until their own magnificent fleet of six iron screw propellers, built on the Clyde, and now nearly ready for launching, arrive in our bay to take their place permanently in the line. These vessels will all be of first-class construction, dimensions, and equipment, specially adapted for the service in which they are to engage. They are all of two thousand five hundred and three thousand five hundred tons, respectively. On their arrival here it is the intention of the company, we believe, to increase the service between the points named to two trips per month, instead of once every four weeks as at present. The ships of this line are now dispatched hence on the fourth Saturday of each month, or as soon thereafter as the closed mails from Europe for Australia arrive in San Francisco, via the Overland Railroad from New York. On the outward and return voyages the vessels of this line touch at Honolulu (Sandwich Islands) and at Kandavau (Fiji Islands). Through connections, on as near schedule time as possible, are made by this company with all points in the Atlantic States and Great Britain to or from any part of New South Wales or New Zealand. The following scale of fares from San Francisco to the places annexed have been adapted by the company for 1874: To or from Honolulu, in the saloon, $75; in second cabin, $50; in steerage, $30. To or from Kandavau, $150, $125, and $90; Auckland, $200, $150, and $100; Wellington, $230, $175, and $120; Lyttleton, $230, $175, and $125; Port Chalmers, $235, $177.50, and $127.50; Sydney, $200, $150, and $100; Melbourne, $225, $162.50, and $110; Brisbane, $220, $160, and $107.50; New Caledonia, $220, $160, and $107.50. This company is, in the strictest sense of the term, an international one, the capital invested being about equally divided between English and American shareholders.

COAST LINES STEAMSHIPS.—In addition to the steamships of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co., which stop at stated periods at the principal ports between this city and Panama, there are several lines which make regular trips to the different ports north of San Diego, the most important of which is that of Goodall, Nelson & Perkins. This line was inaugurated in 1864 with a single steamship, the Santa Cruz. It has since grown to its present proportions by the sagacity and efficient management of its projectors. Every port from San Diego as far north as Tomales Bay, Marin Co., is visited regularly by one or more of the steamships connected with this line, by means of which the products of the different valleys contiguous to the coast can always be made available to meet the demands of this market. This advantage, it is claimed, gives the steamships of this line an aggregate of freight exceeding that of any other line on this coast. Number of steamships employed, nine, all screw, with an aggregate capacity of four thousand seven hundred tons. The Oregon Steamship Co. dispatch steamships regularly to Portland, Oregon, and Sitka, Alaska. Number of steamships employed, three; aggregate capacity, three thousand five hundred tons. The business of this line is of growing importance to the commercial interests of this port, as it affords the only direct and speedy means of communicating with the ports of Oregon and Alaska. The Colorado Steam Navigation Co. dispatch a steamship every twenty days for the Colorado River and ports on the Mexican Coast. By the facilities afforded by this line communication is secured with several important ports on the Southern Coast, and the extensive region of country bordering on the Colorado River, including a large section of Southern Utah. Two screw steamships, Montana and Newbern, are employed in the service of this line. Two steamships, owned by different parties, make regular trips to Humboldt. The trade in this direction has increased threefold since the establishment of this route. A line of two steamships of five hundred tons each has been established between this city and Coos Bay, for the purpose of bringing the product of the coal mines in the vicinity of the latter place to this market; ample accommodations are also provided for freight and passengers. Communication with Victoria, V. I., is maintained by the steamship Prince Alfred, which makes semi-monthly trips, carrying the mails between the two ports, for which a subsidy is paid by the British Government.

Shipping and Lumber Trade.

PRICE OF LUMBER—COST OF BUILDING, ETC.—Lumber and other building materials are cheap in San Francisco. Annexed are the present rates adopted by the Lumber Dealers' Exchange: Puget Sound lumber (rough), $20 per M feet; flooring and stepping, $30; three and four-inch street planks, $17; laths, $3.25; rough redwood, $20 per M; surface and tongued and grooved (first quality), $32.50; second quality, tongued and grooved, $22.50. These rates favor the buyer. Carpenters are at present paid $2.50 to $4 per day.

THE SHIPPING AND LUMBER TRADE OF THIS PORT.—Three thousand six hundred and forty-seven vessels, of all classes and flags, arrived in the port of San Francisco during the year 1873. These represented a total tonnage of one million two hundred and ninety-three thousand three hundred and ninety-eight tons. Three thousand and thirty-four of these arrivals were American vessels from domestic ports, having a tonnage of seven hundred and thirty-four thousand one hundred and twenty tons; two hundred and sixty-three, with an aggregate of two hundred and ninety thousand three hundred and thirty-four tons, were American vessels from foreign ports; three hundred and sixteen, of two hundred and sixty-one thousand seven hundred and fifty-seven tons, were foreign vessels from foreign ports; eleven, of one thousand one hundred and fourteen tons, were American vessels from miscellaneous fishing voyages; one foreign vessel, of one hundred and eighty tons, from a similar voyage; twenty American vessels, of five thousand four hundred and ninety-five tons, from whaling voyages; and two foreign vessels, of three hundred and ninety-eight tons, from similar voyages—aggregating the above total of arrivals and tonnage—three thousand six hundred and forty-seven vessels, of one million two hundred and ninety-three thousand three hundred and ninety-eight tons. Domestic Atlantic ports are represented by seventy of the above arrivals, having an aggregate tonnage of eighty-seven thousand seven hundred and thirty tons; and domestic Pacific ports by two thousand nine hundred and sixty-four vessels, of a total tonnage of six hundred and forty-six thousand three hundred and eighty-eight tons. The freight charges on the cargoes imported by both domestic and foreign vessels in 1873 amounted to $4,531,959. The tonnage entering this port during the past year has been increased by fifty-six thousand four hundred and fifty-one tons since the date of our last issue. The total duties paid to Government on the cargoes of the above vessels for 1873 was $7,873,460.86.

The importance of one of the leading interests of this port (the lumber trade) is best shown by the total exports of that article for the past year. The number of feet sent to foreign countries in 1873 was seventeen million four hundred and fifteen thousand two hundred and eighty-seven, having a total value of $350,024.

The foreign shipments of lumber made direct from the mill ports of our Northern Pacific Coast, during the same period, amounted in all to fifty millions of feet. The total amount of Puget Sound and Oregon pine lumber (both rough and dressed), laid down in San Francisco, for 1873, aggregated one hundred and five million three hundred and seventy-four thousand and seventy-eight feet. The addition of the redwood, fir, cedar, laurel, spruce, and maple lumber received at this port in the same time, makes the total lumber receipts of San Francisco for 1873 aggregate two hundred and three million three hundred and twenty-nine thousand four hundred and forty-one feet.

A very fair percentage of the lumber cut on this coast during the year has been utilized at home in the construction of vessels for our coasting trade. Vessels of this class are in many instances built immediately at the mill-ports of Oregon, Puget Sound, etc., San Francisco only leading in the number turned out, in consequence of the greater facilities for construction obtainable here. In the business of providing both light and heavy spars for vessels of all sizes, this coast is fast asserting its superiority. For length, straightness, durability, elasticity, and freedom from natural blemishes, as well as the facility with which it can be worked, the fir produced by the forests of our Northern Pacific possessions, is second to none in the world. The admiration excited abroad by the unusual continuous length and strength of the spars of the ship Three Brothers, and other vessels fitted out here, is gaining for the fir grown upon this coast a deserved popularity among naval architects.

THE GROWTH AND MANUFACTURE OF DOMESTIC TOBACCO.—Among the recently organized industries of San Francisco, the curing and manufacture of California-raised tobacco at Gilroy, is beginning to assume a very prominent place. The Consolidated Tobacco Company now employs over one hundred hands in the manufacture of cigars, who turn out an average of fifty thousand per week. Besides the cigars made, this company also manufactures about six thousand pounds of home-grown tobacco every week. Twenty-two men are engaged in this branch of the business alone, one half of whom are Chinese. At this date they are all working on the new crop, which is said to be superior to that raised in any preceding year. As experience in local tobacco culture increases, each succeeding crop proves superior to its predecessor. Good judges of raw and manufactured tobacco pronounce last year's California article to be fully equal, when properly cured, to imported tobacco from Cuba, and to far exceed in quality that imported to this city from Manila and other Asiatic countries. This tobacco-manufacturing industry bids fair, therefore, to make San Francisco an active and successful rival to foreign cities hitherto noted for an almost exclusive monopoly of this trade. Besides cigars, the company referred to produces smoking tobacco of native growth fully equal to the best brands imported. We understand it is their intention to commence the manufacture of all grades of chewing tobacco. We also learn that this company proposes to plant six hundred acres of tobacco this season, from which over one million pounds of cured product may be safely anticipated.

The Theaters of San Francisco.

The theaters and other places of public amusement in this city are both numerous and well patronized. The class of dramas, comedies, burlesques, etc., enacted at these houses is generally of a high order of excellence—at least in so far as good stock and star acting in their rendition and the style of stage presentation can be said to make them so. Indeed, theater-goers and newspaper critics here are so fastidious and hard to please that managers are sure to lose money in the attempt to cater to the public taste with anything short of the best talent obtainable. The comparatively short time now taken to reach the Pacific Coast from the large cities of the Atlantic States renders the engagement of fresh faces and accompanying novelties in the theatrical line an easy matter to enterprising managers. The selections for this market, however, must be made judiciously. There is probably no city in the world in which an actor or actress sooner finds his or her true level than in San Francisco. No amount of preparatory trumpeting, newspaper puffery, and printer's ink, prior to arrival, seems to influence the public verdict here in regard to an actor's merits or the reverse; all depends on the manner in which he acquits himself on his first appearance. Theatrical people and public lecturers often come here with a very mistaken notion of the intellectual status of the audiences before whom they are to appear. The result is that the visits of many such turn out complete failures, as far as any additions to either their fame or their purse are concerned, and they leave our shores thoroughly disgusted with the experience involved in their lack of power to please people so critical as Californians generally are. On the other hand, it not unfrequently happens that a San Francisco-made actor or actress, who has played here for years comparatively unnoticed, perhaps, at one of our minor theaters, goes East and is suddenly transformed into a public pet and a star of the first magnitude. These somewhat erratic differences in public judgment on either side of the continent can perhaps best be reconciled by those who make such matters their study. We merely record the fact.

THE CALIFORNIA THEATER.—This is the largest theater in the State, and in the class of performances, the merit of the actors engaged, and the average public patronage bestowed upon it, is, comparatively, second to no theater in the Union. It was built in 1869, at a cost of about $125,000. It is located on the north side of Bush Street, between Kearny and Dupont, and covers a lot one hundred and sixty-five feet front by one hundred and thirty-seven and a half feet deep. The stage has a depth of seventy feet by a width of seventy-two feet; the auditorium is seventy feet deep and sixty-two feet wide; two thousand two hundred people can be comfortably seated in the house at one time. The management is under the charge of Mr. John McCullough, proprietor, and Mr. Barton Hill, manager. The interior is divided into dress circle, parquette, family circle, and gallery; $1 is charged for seats in the two former, and fifty and twenty-five cents for seats in the two latter.

In addition to the above well-known places of public amusement, San Francisco is well supplied with minor theaters, melodeons, concert halls, lecture rooms, etc., more particular mention of which is not requisite. These are all well patronized in the respective uses to which they are devoted.

THE OPERA HOUSE.—This favorite theater occupies a large lot on the north side of Bush Street, between Montgomery and Kearny. It has been open for public performances a little over a year, and is capable of comfortably seating twelve hundred people. It is owned and controlled by Mr. Thomas Maguire, the well-known California pioneer manager, whose career in that capacity and the theatrical history of the Pacific Coast are almost identical. His business tact and knowledge of the tastes of our theater-going public ranks him as the most successful theatrical manager we have ever had in California. The interior of the Opera House is divided into dress circle, parquette, and family circle; $1 is the price of admission to the two former, and fifty cents is charged for seats in the latter. The people engaged at the Opera House, in all capacities, generally averages from thirty to thirty-five persons. The range of performances presented is almost as versatile as the various actors who take part therein, and embraces opera, comedy, extravaganza, minstrelsy, etc., in uninterrupted succession during the whole year.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATER.—This popular house of public amusement is also situated on Bush Street, directly opposite the Opera House. It stands on a lot sixty-eight feet front by one hundred and thirty-seven feet deep, and is capable of seating sixteen hundred spectators. Mr. Thomas Maguire, its sole proprietor and manager, has recently rebuilt and opened this theater, which is one of the most elegant and attractive places of amusement in the city, and it is his intention to present a class of performances which will include the entire range of his managerial experience. The view of the stage from all parts of the auditorium is uninterrupted, and the acoustic properties are unexcelled by any other theater on this Coast. The auditorium is divided into dress circle, parquette, and balcony, and the prices of admission are one dollar and fifty cents, respectively. From forty to fifty people of all grades of ability generally constitute the strength of the company engaged at this theater.

"OPERA HOUSE AND ART BUILDING ASSOCIATION."—The structure thus designated is situated on Mission Street, one hundred and fifteen feet west of Third. It covers an area of one hundred and ten feet in front by two hundred and seventy-five feet in depth. Its erection was commenced in August last and rapidly pushed forward until the second story was reached, in December last. Financial embarrassments then interrupted further progress. Arrangements have since been entered into by the Association for the final completion of the building, and it is confidently predicted that it will be formally opened to the public in October of the present year. The building will be one of the largest of its kind in the United States, covering the entire lot, one hundred and ten by two hundred and seventy-five feet in size. It will be three stories high, and composed entirely of brick and iron. In addition to the main auditorium, the building will embrace a second public hall, art gallery, stores, studios, basements, cellars, etc. The theater itself will be one of the largest and most complete on the continent. The interior will be divided into four successive tiers, which will have a seating capacity for over two thousand five hundred persons, and will be characterized by elaborate elegance and comfort in every detail of modern improvement. When finished, this magnificent house is to be devoted to the rendition of grand opera and the higher grade of standard dramas. The location is one of the best in the city for this purpose, being in the immediate vicinity of all the principal hotels and public buildings. The entire cost of the building will be $250,000; it is owned by an incorporated company, with a capital stock of $300,000, divided into three thousand shares, of the par value of $100 each. The building is already leased and will rent for $3,000 per month.

THE PALACE AMPHITHEATER AND GRAND CIRCUS.—Equestrian performances have always been a favorite class of amusement with the San Francisco public. The circus, with its gorgeous paraphernalia, daring feats of horsemanship, and acrobatic skill has an irresistible fascination for the rising generation everywhere, but here the parents and guardians of that hopeful portion of humanity seem to enjoy the delights of the hippodrome with as much zest as the boys and girls whom they are supposed to accompany thither as protectors. Hitherto in San Francisco the gratification of both old and young in this respect has been somewhat desultory and uncertain, and, when they have had a circus to attend, its pleasures have been enjoyed with the drawback of an uncomfortable canvas tent as a covering to the scenes of the arena. Their tastes in the future, however, are to be permanently and comfortably satisfied. That irrepressible giant among showmen, Mr. John Wilson, has recently erected a costly and substantial wooden amphitheater at the corner of New Montgomery and Mission streets, which he promises to keep open nightly as one of the permanent public amusement resorts of the city. This establishment was opened for the first time on January 26, 1874, and was built expressly for the purposes of a circus and amphitheater, in the old Roman sense of those terms. Its sole proprietor and manager is Mr. John Wilson, and its erection cost him over $20,000. The structure covers a lot one hundred and twenty-five feet on Mission Street by one hundred and sixty feet on New Montgomery; the interior is one hundred feet square, and the arena forty feet in diameter. The auditorium is divided into two parts, the dress and family circles, the former being elaborately furnished with oak chairs, upholstered in red morocco. In the rear of this circle there are fifteen private boxes, elegantly fitted. Connected with the main building are magnificent show-stables, containing the carefully trained and well appointed stud of horses and ponies. These stables are fitted with every convenience, and are open to public inspection during each performance. Manager Wilson has been very successful in his venture since he opened the establishment, and the large troupe of star performers he has constantly engaged promises hopefully for the treasury in the future. The equestrian director is the famous Omar Kingsley (Ella Zoyara), and the able treasurer of the establishment is Mr. John Thomson.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Perhaps the cheapest and most popular place of public amusement on the Pacific coast is the beautiful park known by this name. A visit to it combines both recreation and education—the former by its endless sources of amusement for all sexes and ages, and by the beautiful manner in which its grounds are cultivated and ornamented; the latter by the opportunity it affords for the study of art, natural history, and botany, in its menageries, aquarium, aviaries, picture galleries, conservatories, etc. These gardens are bounded by Mission, Valencia, Thirteenth, and Fifteenth streets. Four of the principal lines of city street cars pass close to them, one of them belonging to the proprietor and known as the City Railroad. The number of visitors to Woodward's Gardens during the year 1873 is given at 580,000. The price of admission to this delightful resort, including participation in all its pleasures, only costs the visitor twenty-five cents.

THE CITY GARDENS.—This resort is a vigorous rival to Woodward's Gardens for the patronage of the recreation-loving public. The class of attractions presented in it are somewhat akin to those offered at Woodward's, so far as theatrical representations, balloon ascensions, balls, natural wonders, etc., are concerned. The grounds are beautifully laid out and highly ornamented with shade trees, shrubbery, fancy arbors, etc. They are bounded by Folsom, Harrison, Eleventh, and Twelfth streets. These gardens are extensively patronized by pleasure parties generally. The charge for admission at all times is twenty-five cents.

THE PARKS AND PLEASURE RESORTS OF SAN FRANCISCO.—If this city cannot boast of such parks as the New York Central, the London Regent's, or the Paris Bois de Boulogne, it can point with pride to the fact that a view of the Pacific Ocean, from shore to horizon, may be had from its Golden Gate and other parks. This fact alone, from a hygienic and asthetic standpoint, is worth countless acres of inland pleasure grounds, however mature the vegetation and elaborate the artificial ornamentation bestowed upon them. In the Golden Gate Park there are one thousand and eighteen acres of land, and in the avenue leading to it there are twenty-four acres more, making a total area of one thousand and forty-two acres. Of these, two hundred and ninety acres are now susceptible of cultivation, and the remainder, extending west to the ocean beach, can and will all be reclaimed to vegetation within a few years, by expedients adopted by the Park Commissioners, and at present being successfully demonstrated. The plans now being carried out for the improvement of Golden Gate Park will, in a few years, give to San Franciscans a finished pleasure ground commensurate with the population of the city. That portion of the park at present adorned with trees, shrubs, romantic mounds, and first-class macadamized roads, is nearly two miles in extent. The present Park Commissioners have made a most economical and praiseworthy use of the money placed at their disposal by the Legislature, in the reclamation and ornamentation of the park itself, and the various approaches to it. The equestrian and pedestrian visitor can now enjoy over four miles of wide macadamized roads for driving and walking. About twenty thousand forest and other trees have already been planted, and one hundred and eighty men are at present employed in a vigorous prosecution of the objects contemplated to render the park worthy of the name. The total disbursements for this purpose by the Commissioners, from August 1, 1870, to December 1, 1873, was $250,000. The last Legislature authorized an additional issue of $250,000 in bonds, for carrying on the work, of which $125,000 are now on the market. The Commissioners, feeling the necessity of concentrating their resources on the principal park, have as yet paid but little attention to Buena Vista Park, which, however, will not be much longer neglected. The fine prospects of bay and city scenery which it presents will, together with its other natural advantages, make it a most popular resort. The small park around Mountain Lake, as an indispensable feature to the general plan, will also be improved before long, and Congress will also, almost certainly, grant the use of the most of the Presidio Military Reservation to the city for the purposes of a park. It will, therefore, be seen that San Francisco is in process of being liberally and well supplied with desirable places of out-door recreation.

DRIVES IN THE VICINITY.—There are probably few cities that have more grand and beautiful views, fine scenery, and more attractive drives than are to be found in the immediate vicinity of San Francisco. Take, for instance, the Point Lobos Road to the Cliff House, where you see the broad Pacific spread before you "in the morning like a vast sheet of silver, and in the evening like one vast mass of molten gold;" from thence to the Ocean View and Driving Park over the toll road which sweeps around the curve of the ocean beach, and for your homeward trip take the Central Road over the Mission hills to the city, and you will have viewed a few of the attractive spots in this vicinity.

Banking and Insurance.

SAVINGS BANKS OF SAN FRANCISCO.—The savings banks of a community afford the very best criterion upon which to form an estimate of its material, social, and moral status. It is here that we have to look for evidences of its thrift, economy, sobriety, and law-abiding tendency. The possession of means by the masses promotes independence of thought and action, and excites a deep interest in the permanence of institutions from which they derive substantial benefits. They constitute the best citizens in time of peace, and the most reliable soldiery in time of war, who are the proprietors of the projects they legislate for and defend. Savings banks are continual checks upon the designs of unscrupulous demagogues whose object it is to achieve political ascendency by instituting a conflict between labor and capital. They are silent but powerful reminders of the fact that the interests of all classes are homogeneous, and that labor is as necessarily the friend and coadjutor of capital, as capital is the rewarder of labor. The millions of financial driblets which find their way into savings banks are there collected into grand reservoirs of loanable funds, which issue again in large and fertilizing streams, refreshing commerce, stimulating enterprise, promoting industry, and establishing manufactures; all of which provide additional arsenals for labor, new workshops for the industrious, and return compound interest to the owners of funds deposited in the savings banks. The wealthier classes, through the agency of savings banks are constant borrowers from their employés, who, in turn, are steadily prospering by reason of the financial facilities they are collectively enabled to afford. To institute a comparison between the savings banks of the different sections is simply to demonstrate the difference of compensation paid to labor in those sections; to determine the relative thrift and economy of their populations, and to show the recurrent benefits which capital receives from liberally recompensed service.

The latest statistics received respecting Eastern savings banks indicate that they are increasing in number and importance in the States of New York, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut. The combined capital deposited in the savings banks of those States on the 1st of March, 1873—since when no data have come to hand—exceeded $600,000,000, which is much in excess of the combined banking capital of the whole Union, exclusive of the savings institutions. The total number of depositors in all Eastern savings banks is stated to be one million seven hundred and sixty-six thousand three hundred and twenty-one, which gives an average of $343, currency, to each individual. The aggregate population of New England, as established by the last census, is three million four hundred and eighty-eight thousand, and there are, in that section, three hundred and eighty-one savings banks, with a combined deposit of $312,000,000. The number of depositors is nine hundred and eighty-nine thousand four hundred and sixty, equal to one depositor out of every four persons. The average to each depositor in the New England States is as follows: Massachusetts, $219.70; Connecticut, $352.17; New Hampshire, $284.60; Maine, $328.30; and in Rhode Island, $455.43, which is considerably beyond that of the other New England States or New York, and the highest in the world outside of California. All the foregoing express currency alone. The returns from Vermont are deficient and unreliable. In some of the Eastern States investments are restricted to classified securities, while much wider limits are allowed by law in others. In New York the aggregate investments are in bonds and mortgages, United States stocks, New York State stocks, stocks of other States, and bonds of cities, counties, and towns of that State. One year ago her savings banks had $96,000,000 loaned on bond and mortgage, and $156,000,000 invested in stocks. Massachusetts had $74,000,000 on bond and mortgage, $14,000,000 loaned to towns and cities, and $24,000,000 invested in stocks. Connecticut had $38,000,000 loaned on real estate. Until within a few years the laws of California compelled her savings banks to confine their loans to real estate; but they are now allowed a wider margin, and may furnish accommodations on California State and County Bonds, United States Mint Certificates of determined value, gold and silver bullion, United States Bonds, and real estate.

The first savings bank, of which there is any historical record, was organized in England through the efforts of the Right Hon. George Rose, who obtained from Parliament, in 1817, the passage of "An Act to encourage the establishment of Banks of Savings in England." British savings banks are conducted on a principle quite different from that which obtains in this country. They are under governmental control, all the money deposited being loaned upon interest to the Government, and depositors are restricted in the amount of their lodgments, so as to exclude all but the humbler classes. In 1861 post-office savings banks were organized in Great Britain, and they have, by the greater facilities they afford, and the undoubted security they offer, largely reduced the number of ordinary savings banks, and, still further, the amount of funds deposited in them. The total received from and paid to depositors in post-office savings banks throughout the United Kingdom, in 1870, was as follows: Received, including interest, £6,084,610; paid out, £4,227,056; computed capital, £13,524,200. The total amounts officially reported as received from and paid to depositors in ordinary savings banks, at the same date, were: Received, £7,667,735; paid out, £7,857,091; computed capital, £37,500,522, which, added to the computed capital of the post-office depositories, gives a grand total of £51,024,731, prudentially invested by the humble classes of the United Kingdom. Reducing pounds sterling to dollars and cents, at $4.86 to the pound, the aggregate of deposits in all the savings institutions of the United Kingdom is $247,980,192, and the population being twenty-eight million, the representative amount to each individual is $8.85. The combined populations of New York and the New England States is seven million eight hundred and seventy thousand six hundred and eighty-three, and the depositary representation for each individual is $76.10. The census of 1870 accords to this State a population of only five hundred and sixty thousand two hundred and forty-seven, of which seventy thousand are Chinese, and something like eight thousand are Indians, neither of whom make use of our savings banks. We have, then, only about four hundred and eighty-two thousand who are at all likely to be depositors, and the average depositary representation to each person is $111, in round numbers, being $35 in excess of the East, and $102.15 in advance of the United Kingdom. San Francisco makes a still more satisfactory exhibit. The population of this city, 1873, is estimated by the highest authorities to be one hundred and eighty-eight thousand, of whom twelve thousand are Chinese, leaving one hundred and seventy-six thousand liable to make deposits, which, on the 1st of January, 1874, reached $46,745,044, being a depositary representation of $265.75 to each inhabitant, and is far in excess of any other portion of the globe. Without further preface we subjoin a tabulated statement of the San Francisco savings banks as they were on the 1st of January, 1874:

The average to each depositor is $902.25, gold, equal to $1,000, currency, in round numbers, and is therefore $545 more than the average of Rhode Island depositors, which, outside of California, is the highest known. A glance at the table will show the increased business for 1873 as compared with 1872.

COMMERCIAL BANKS.—Banks of issue are prohibited by the Constitution of California, and all our commercial banks are operating within the limits prescribed by law. We have taken much pains to arrive at something like a correct statement of the amount of money employed in the banking operations of California, and furnish the following synopsis as the result. Of the nineteen commercial banks operating in this city, the Bank of California occupies the foremost rank, both by reason of its larger operations, and its recognized standing in all business communities throughout the civilized world. Its capital and deposits amount to $14,000,000, and its transactions are on a gigantic scale. The stockholders are all men of wealth, and its affairs have been managed with ability. Next in rank is the London and San Francisco Bank, limited. During the past year, the Anglo-Californian Bank has filled an important position, and all its contemporaries have been measurably successful. Not one of them sustained the slightest abrasion from the financial shock which demolished so many eminent Eastern banks. The united capital of our metropolitan commercial banks is about $20,000,000, controlling an equal amount of deposits, and if we add the $46,000,000 comprising the capital and deposits of our savings institutions, we have a working total of $86,000,000 in this city alone. Interior savings banks hold $10,000,000 of deposits, and by making a liberal allowance of $5,000,000 more, for private interior banking capital, we find a grand total of $110,000,000 of funds employed in the business of this State. The rates at which discounts have been made in the metropolis were one to one and one quarter per cent., monthly, in commercial banks, and nine to twelve per cent., per annum, on mortgage and State securities, in the savings institutions. The amount of dividends disbursed by our banks of all classes during the past year, was about $10,000,000, of which the savings banks paid in the neighborhood of $5,000,000.

National Gold Note Banks.—These institutions are peculiar to California, and operate in accordance with Federal regulations as established by Act of Congress passed in July, 1870. Their success in this State has been very satisfactory to shareholders, and they have largely contributed to the general ease of the money market. The capital is restricted by law to one million each, and for the privilege of issuing notes, each bank doing business on a million capital, is required to deposit with the United States Sub-Treasurer the sum of one million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in Government six per cent. bonds, and to keep on hand gold enough to redeem its notes on presentation. Gold notes, received at first with hesitancy, are now eagerly sought, as they are more readily transported in large sums than gold, and are exchangeable for gold at any time, but they are not receivable in payment of Custom House duties.

The gold note banks of San Francisco are two in number, viz.: The First National Gold Note Bank of San Francisco, and the National Gold Bank and Trust Company of San Francisco. The resources of the first named, as reported by the Controller on the 27th of February, 1874, amounted to $3,511,508, and those of the National Gold Bank and Trust Company were $4,758,825. Whenever visited by the Controller these banks are summoned to give an exact account of their condition some two or three weeks anterior to the date of summons. They are flourishing institutions, and have thoroughly acquired public confidence.

Meteorological Observations made at San Francisco from November, 1850, to April, 1874.

BY HENRY GIBBONS, M.D.

In the following tables the reader will find, in a condensed form, the results of twenty-three years' diligent observation of the climate of San Francisco, with more particular reference to rain. A single glance at the rain tables will present the quantity of rain which has fallen in each month since 1850; the quantity in each season; the quantity before and after the end of the year; the date of the beginning and ending of each rainy season, and the date of the first and last scattering rains. The following are some of the deductions presented by this record:

Rain has fallen in every month of the year. In July it has rained only in one year; August has furnished rain in four years; June in six years; September in seven years; October in eleven years. No account is made of a mere sprinkle, nor of the deposit of summer mist. The greatest quantity of mist which ever falls in twenty-four hours is about three hundredths of an inch. But this quantity is very rare. Near the ocean the mist is much more copious.

The driest season was 1850–51, which gave only seven inches. Next to that was 1863–64, with eight and one half inches. The winter of 1867–68 gave the most rain—forty inches. The average is between twenty-one and twenty-two inches.

The earliest setting in of the rainy season was November 1; the latest, January 12. An early beginning and an abundant supply are apt to go together, but there is no rule in this respect. The latest beginnings have been followed by an average supply.

The average date of the beginning of the rainy season is November 28; of the termination, April 10. March is as certain to bring rain in liberal amount as any other month. In one year out of every three there is no rain of importance after March. The last showers of the season come, with remarkable uniformity, about the third week of May.

The middle of January is the average dividing point of the rainy season. The mean quantity before January 1 is about equal to the mean quantity after January 31.

December gives the greatest average quantity; January is not far behind; February, March, and November come next, and are nearly alike; then April, May, and Oct., in the order named.

The greatest amount of rain in any one month was in January, 1862, when there fell the enormous quantity of eighteen inches.

It is worthy of note that in the driest seasons there has been an abundant supply for agricultural purposes, had it been distributed evenly. Three inches in December, with one inch in each of the four following months, would answer all purposes.

The rain-table of San Francisco may be made the basis for estimating the fall in other parts of the State. The mountains of the north have from two to three times as much, and the southern section of the State about half as much, or even less in some localities. The valley of the Sacramento has nearly the same quantity as San Francisco; that of the San Joaquin one fourth or one third less, the quantity diminishing southward.

By reference to the tables showing the extremes of heat and cold, it appears that the coldest weather was in January, 1854, when the mercury fell to 25°. At that time the mud in the streets was frozen solid, and the shallow ponds were covered with ice strong enough for boys to skate on. But such weather is extremely rare, though since that time the ground has been frozen several times so as not to thaw fully in the shade for a day or two. The coldest noonday embraced in the record was 37°. Often the entire winter passes by without bringing the thermometer so low as the freezing point. In 1853 it fell at no time below 40°.

The extreme of heat was on the tenth and eleventh of September, 1852, when the thermometer reached 97° and 98° on the two days, respectively. This, however, was entirely exceptional, and might not occur again in half a century. The air was dry as a sirocco, and caused the woodwork of houses to crackle and the plaster to break on the wooden walls.

With the exception just noted, the hottest day on record was 93° on the sixth day of July, 1867. In October, 1864, and in September, 1865, it reached 91°, and in July, 1855, it reached 90°. Thus it appears there were only six days in twenty years when the thermometer rose as high as 90°.

The table of mean temperature shows that our summer does not come till the summer months have passed by. September is the warmest month in the year, and October next; then comes August; July, the hottest month elsewhere, is the fourth here, or ranks with June; next come April and May; then March and November; then February, and finally January and December, which are the only winter months, if indeed we have any weather that deserves the name of winter.

Twice the ground has been covered with snow. On the twenty-ninth of December, 1856, it snowed very fast for several hours, and two or three inches gathered, but it melted before night. On the twelfth of January, 1868, it snowed fast before day, so that two inches collected. But it disappeared before sunrise, so that few persons enjoyed the rare spectacle.

The extraordinary evenness of the climate depends on the adjacent ocean, the water of which, flowing in a current from the north, is always at a temperature of about 50°, summer and winter. The sea breeze of summer, which chills the air at noonday, leaves no place for hot nights. There is not, on an average, one night in the year when it is warm enough to sit out of doors at midnight with comfort.

GENERAL REVIEW.

Our Public Schools.*

The San Francisco school year begins with July and ends with the following June. Hence the educational record of the calendar year 1873 includes the last half of the school year 1872-3, and the first half of the school year 1873-4.

ORGANIZATION.

The present classification of the public schools of this city divides them into five kinds—Primary, Grammar, and High; the Evening Schools, which are a kind of temporary and partial combination of Grammar and High School; and the Model School or Training School, which is really a kind of Sub-Normal and Practice School combined. To these one may add the Teachers' Normal School, held upon Monday evening of each school week, in which teachers of any grade may pursue studies and receive instruction fitting them to pass examinations for higher grades of certificates.

SEXES.

The thirty-five Primary Schools are all mixed; of the thirteen Grammar Schools seven are mixed, three are for boys only, and three for girls alone; while the two High Schools provide one for each sex. The one Model School and the single Evening Normal School receive both sexes, while the Evening Schools are partly one sex and partly both.

NUMBER OF GRADES.

The Primary Schools have four grades—the eighth, seventh, sixth, and fifth; the Grammar Schools four—the fourth, third, second, and first; and the High schools three grades—the junior, the middle, and the senior.

In all the schools each grade may include, and generally does include, several classes of similar advancement and nearly equal rank.

TIME IN EACH GRADE.

In every grade throughout the entire course, the studies are so arranged that pupils of average capacity and ordinary diligence can thoroughly and safely complete them in one year. Hence the Primary School course takes four years, the Grammar School four years, and the High School three years. Thus the entire public school course occupies eleven years. The regulations provide, however, that pupils of unusual ability or extraordinary industry may be promoted more rapidly and complete the course proportionally sooner. Every year furnishes scores of instances of this, though it is generally true that the pupil who attempts three years' work in two years, loses more than he gains.

AVERAGE AGE OF EACH GRADE.

The age nominally required for entering the lowest Primary grade, the eighth, is six years. While some enter younger, many more come in older, so that the average age of eighth-grade pupils upon entrance is about six years and three quarters, showing that the number entering at seven or upwards, is decidedly greater than the number entering at six or under. To find the average age of any upper grade add one year for each grade. The raising of the average age in each of the upper Grammar grades, resulting from the coming in of older outside pupils, is nearly or fully balanced by the more rapid promotions of the smarter pupils already mentioned, so that the average age of any grade may be found with sufficient accuracy by the method just stated.

* By Prof. E. Knowlton, to whom we would again express our thanks for courteous assistance.—COMPILER.

STUDIES OF EACH GRADE.

EIGHTH GRADE.

The little ones of the beginning Primary grade—the eighth—learn counting, the reading of printed and written numbers, and writing numbers to 101; Roman numerals in connection with their reading lessons, and the mental and written addition of small numbers. In reading and spelling they learn the more common, easy, and simple words from the teacher's speech, the charts, and the reading book; and the proper putting together of these words into common household, school-room, or play-ground sentences. In writing they learn the small letters and the simpler capitals. They also receive oral lessons upon the five senses—their names, organs, and uses; common objects from the objects themselves, from pictures, and from the teacher's description; conversational lessons upon common domestic animals and their uses, with instruction in the primary and secondary colors, from colored objects and from colored diagrams upon charts. Besides these they learn to sing the musical scale, ascending and descending, both by the usual scale names and by other syllables; and four songs by note; and have physical exercises twice a day.

To do all this they sit in school about three hours and a half each day, five days of each week, through forty-four weeks of the year, which is seven hundred and seventy hours a year, out of the four thousand three hundred and eighty hours during which they are supposed to be awake, allowing that they sleep half the time. Thus they are in school and at study less than one-fifth of their waking time. And it must be remembered that even this time is broken by from two to three daily recesses of fifteen minutes each, and a long intermission of from one hour to an hour and a quarter at noon, besides the five or ten minutes, twice a day, spent in regular physical exercises in the school room under the lead, or at least the guidance of the teacher. Thus the little ones are seldom, if ever, kept even approximately still in their seats more than a half hour at a time. In no city on the continent, or indeed in the world, are school children confined fewer hours or more frequently and thoughtfully relieved by careful ventilation and suitable exercise. The old cry, "The Murder of the Innocents," which Col. Higginson and his zealous physiological associates used to be so fond of raising concerning the confinement of the Primary school children of Boston, can certainly find no reasonable pretext out here along the distant golden rim of their educational "hub." In fact one needs go but a very little way in his observation of the condition and care of most of the homes from which these children come to have the conclusion forced upon him that they receive a far more physiological and healthful care in their public schools than in their private homes. That there are occasional exceptions no reasonable person can deny, but these spring from the negligence, disobedience, or incompetence of an occasional teacher, or the extreme carefulness of an exceptionally thoughtful and over-physiological parent, which is still more rare than any habitually careless teacher. More parents indeed complain that the schools do not keep their children "out of the way" long enough than find any fault at their confining them so long.

SEVENTH GRADE.

Arithmetic.—Review work of eighth grade, and practice the addition and subtraction of small numbers. Spell words picked from each reading lesson; write weekly from dictation one paragraph from the regular lessons of the week; once in two weeks copy one lesson from the open Reader, as an exercise in spelling, punctuation, and capitals. Write small letters and capitals of the whole alphabet, on slates and blackboards, and use pens, ink, and paper in classes provided with desks, which unfortunately are not as numerous as necessary. Oral lessons upon colors and common plants, and conversations upon wild animals. In vocal music they review and continue the practice of the scales, and learn four more songs from the First Music Reader, and frequently as many by rote. They also copy from the blackboard upon their slates exercises in musical notation, including notes and rests, long and short; staff, lines, spaces, and degrees, measures, bar, double bar, and the G clef.

In this grade the hours of study, the frequency and duration of recesses, and the recurrence of physical exercises, are the same as in the preceding. In both these grades any one lesson seldom exceeds fifteen or twenty minutes. The importance of variety, the necessity of frequent change are fully recognized and prescribed by the Manual, if not always remembered and observed by unfaithful or otherwise incompetent teachers.

SIXTH GRADE.

Language.—Correcting common errors in daily speech; copying from the Reader lessons or parts of lessons, to teach spelling, punctuation, and use of capitals; practice in the use of capitals; writing from memory short abstracts of easy reading lessons as a preparation for original composition; picking out and naming nouns, adjectives, and articles in the reading lessons; weekly dictation of paragraphs to be written; spelling of tabulated words at the head of each reading lesson; abbreviation of words often abreviated, as they occur in the Reader.

Numbers.—Multiplication and division, using one figure for multiplier or divisor. Review work of preceding grade.

Geography.—Monteith's Introduction, to Lesson twenty-nine. The whole to be read aloud in class; map questions studied and answered from open book under guidance of teacher; the most important fourth to be memorized.

Oral Lessons.—Lines, angles, and plain figures from the charts; additional colors, from charts and objects; familiar talks on common articles of food and clothing.

Vocal Music.—Ten minutes daily. Continue songs through Mason's First Music Reader, by rote, to prepare the pupils for learning the same by note. The first six sounds of the scale in the key of G, written upon the staff, in the G clef. Practice daily from the first series of Mason's Musical Charts. Learn the meaning of the repeat, the slur, and the following musical abreviations: p, pp, f, ff, mf; triple, quadruple, and sextuple time, and how to beat each.

Time of study, recesses, intermissions, and physical exercises, as in previous grades.

FIFTH GRADE.

Language.—Oral descriptions of simple objects and familiar incidents; reports, from memory, of oral lessons; correcting grammatical errors in daily speech; construction of easy sentences; naming three parts of speech from the reading lessons; written abstracts of easy reading lessons; changing simple poetry into common prose; and exercises in letter writing. Read first half of McGuffey's Fourth Reader. Spell and define words in table at head of each lesson. Write weekly, from dictation, one or more paragraphs of some lesson previously read; copy from open book some reading lesson, to teach spelling, punctuation, use of capitals, and division into paragraphs. Willson's Primary Speller, to p. 67. Abbreviations of words commonly abbreviated, as they occur in the Reader.

Numbers.—Multiplication and division continued, mental and written combined. Easy lessons in fractions, common and decimal, and the tables of denominate numbers.

Geography.—Complete the text book; Monteith's Introduction; read the whole from open book; memorize the most important fourth.

Oral Lessons.—Animals from Willson's Chart, No. XVI; Plants, from No. XXII; Colors, from objects and charts; forms of Solids from box of models.

Vocal Music.—Daily practice from music charts, and songs and exercises by note from First Music Reader. Sharps and flats, and their use. The Major Diatonic Scale, by its intervals. Mason's National Music Teacher, lessons 25-29, and 33. Time, at least ten minutes daily.

For promotion, pupils should write, at dictation, whole, half, quarter, and eighth notes and their corresponding rests; the staff and the G clef, in its proper place on the staff; also write, at dictation, upon the staff with the G clef, the notes representing the following sounds and pitches: g, a, b, c, d, e, f, g, a, b, c, d, e, f, g; also, f sharp, f sharp, e sharp, b flat.

This grade finishes the Primary School work. Pupils who successfully complete it receive certificates entitling them to a seat in any fourth-grade class in the city at the beginning of the next term.

Besides the studies already enumerated, about fifty special teachers in Drawing, French, and German have taught those studies for two years past, until January, 1874, when the Board of Education suddenly dismissed them, for reasons which appear elsewhere in this article.

GRAMMAR GRADES.

These form the second group of four grades in the ascending system of public teaching. They are provided to teach the common branches of an English education to all who desire to learn. The studies of each grade are these:

FOURTH GRADE.

Language.—Name all the parts of speech from the reading lessons. Learn number and case of nouns; comparison of adjectives; declension of pronouns, and conjugation of verb "to be" in the indicative mood. Write composition fortnightly; abstracts of reading lessons, transpositions, letters; descriptions of vacations, visits, excursions, picnics, or travels.

Reading and Spelling.—Complete Fourth Reader; spell from Reader; learn English prefixes, and suffixes from word analysis.

Geography.—Through United States, especially California and local or home geography. Read and study the whole with open book; memorize the most important fourth as previously assigned by teacher in each advance lesson.

Arithmetic.—Addition, subtraction, and multiplication of common and decimal fractions with United States money. Particularly learn analysis of operations; take mental arithmetic in connection with written, learning the same topic in both kinds at the same time.

Writing.—Payson, Dunton, and Scribner's system, as directed by the principal.

Drawing.—Bartholomew's system, under direction of special instructor.

Vocal Music.—Review work of fifth and sixth grades. Write scales of C, G, and F major upon staff with G clef, with proper signatures; name pitches of sounds composing those scales in order; read and sing, by note, simple exercises and melodies in the keys of C, G, and F. Mason's Second Series of Charts and Second Music Reader. Time, ten minutes daily. Lessons by special teacher, one half hour weekly.

THIRD GRADE.

Language.—Correct daily errors in speech; write abstracts of lessons in reading and geography, reports of oral lessons, letters, transpositions, or paraphrases; conjugate verbs in indicative mood; parse and analyze easy sentences from Reader.

Reading and Spelling.—First half of Fifth Reader; spell and define important words from reading lessons.

Word Analysis.—Learn common prefixes and suffixes, and define words formed with them.

Geography.—Complete the text-book, especially learning the geography of California and the Pacific Coast. Read the whole with open book; memorize not more than one fourth of the leading points as previously marked by teacher.

Arithmetic.—Review work of preceding grades; division of common and decimal fractions; United States money; compound numbers and reduction, omitting obsolete tables; specially learn analysis of operations; mental in connection with written, learning the same topic in both kinds at the same time.

Writing.—P. D. & S.'s system as directed by principal.

EDWARD BOSQUI & CO., Bookbinders and Job Printers, corner of Leidesdorff and Clay Streets.

C P. VAN SCHAACK & CO., 708, 712, 714, and 716 Kearny St., Importers and Jobbers.

Drawing.—Architectural (for boys), draw from objects, doors, windows, tables, plans of rooms, etc., from actual measurement; half an hour weekly. For girls, as directed by the teacher of drawing.

Vocal Music.—Major and relative minor scales, with major and minor intervals. Sing by note in the clef of C, G, D, A, B flat and E flat. Mason's second series of charts and second music reader. Ten minutes daily. One half hour weekly by special music teacher.

SECOND GRADE.

Language.—Correct daily errors in common speech. review conjugation of verbs; analyze and parse easier simple, complex and compound sentences from reading lessons; learn the coarse print of text-book; read aloud in class the important notes and exceptions; read rules of syntax, and correct examples of false syntax. Compositions fortnightly upon same topics as hereinafter specified for the First Grade.

Reading and Spelling.—Complete the Fifth Reader. Write paragraphs dictated from the Reader at least once a week. Spell, both orally and in writing, the most important words of every lesson, to cultivate the habit of observing the orthography of words.

Word Analysis—Prefixes, suffixes and roots of words, illustrated by analysis and synthesis of composite words and by formation of sentences including words previously analyzed.

Geography.—Part second of text-book, California and Nevada. Teach the most important fourth of the map questions. In Descriptive Geography memorize only important facts.

History.—Discoveries, colonial settlements, and wars, and the Revolution—in U. S. History. Read and discuss the whole in class, but memorize only leading facts.

Arithmetic.—Common and decimal fractions; compound numbers and reduction, omitting duodecimals and obsolete tables. Review work of preceding grades, especially attending to explanation of principles and analysis of operations, particularly in fractions. Carry mental arithmetic along with written, teaching the same topic in both kinds at the same time.

Writing.—P. D. & S.'s National System, and other exercises as directed by the principal.

Drawing.—Architectural drawing, linear drawing, plans and perspective (for boys). For girls, linear perspective as applied to drawing from objects, chairs, tables, rooms and buildings; landscape and flowers in pencil or crayon. One lesson of one hour, weekly.

Vocal Music.—Review of lessons and exercises in first part of "Song Echo," singly and in concert. Chromatic scales and intervals. Simple exercises in the usual keys, at sight. Songs for two voices, soprano and alto. Mason's Third Series of Charts and Third Reader. Time, ten minutes daily. Lessons by the special music teacher, half an hour weekly.

FIRST GRADE.

Language.—General review of text-book in Grammar. Systematical parsing and analysis of sentences from the reading lesson. Weekly compositions; abstracts of reading lessons, turning poetry to prose; abstracts of lessons in geography and history; reports of oral lessons, letter writing, and miscellaneous subjects.

Word Analysis.—Prefixes, suffixes, and root words, illustrated by analysis and synthesis of composite words, and formation of sentences including words thus previously studied.

Reading.—Complete Fifth Reader; read aloud from history and geography.

Spelling.—Oral and written spelling of more important words from reading lessons and from the regular lessons in any of the text-books. Oral reports of oral lessons given by principal.

Geography.—Part I of text-book in physical geography; Pacific Coast. Read the whole; learn important points as designated by teacher History.—Complete text-book. Outline review of Second Grade work, Constitution of the United States read with conversational lessons.

Arithmetic.—Interest, simple and compound; partial payments by U. S. rule; commission and brokerage; stocks; profit and loss; discount and banking; ratio and proportion; square root; mensuration and the metric system. Review with special attention to the discussion of principles and the analysis of operations. Take mental arithmetic with written, teaching the same topic in both kinds at the same time.

Writing.—P. D. & S.'s National System, exercises as directed by the principal.

Drawing.—For boys, architectural drawing; linear drawing, plans and elevations of buildings. One lesson of one hour weekly, under special teacher.

Vocal Music.—Review lessons and exercises in first part of text-book—Song Echo; take chromatic scales and intervals; sing in concert and singly; simple exercises in the usual keys, at sight. Two-part songs, for soprano and alto. Mason's Third Series of Charts and Third Music Reader. Time, ten minutes daily. Regular lesson by special teacher half an hour weekly.

AVERAGE AGE AND TIME IN SCHOOL.

The average age of pupils in the Grammar grades is fourteen years. Excluding recesses and intermissions, they are in the school room and regularly engaged in their duties less than twenty-four hours a week. Their regular school time is from nine A.M. to three P.M., that is, six hours. Of this time the morning recess occupies fifteen minutes, from half-past ten to quarter to eleven; the noon intermission one hour, from twelve to one, and the afternoon recess fifteen minutes, from two to quarter past two. Thus, the two recesses and the intermission occupy one hour and a half of the six hours prescribed by the State Law, leaving but four hours and a half of actual school each day. The number of school days in each week is five. Four hours and a half each day for five days gives twenty-two hours and one half as the total time actually spent in the school room at school work in each week by the girls and boys of the Grammar grades, and the same, or very nearly the same, is also true of the High Schools, whose pupils have an average age of seventeen years.

In view of these facts it is idle, and worse than idle, to charge the Public Schools with breaking down the health of their pupils by over-confinement and over-work. There is hardly one girl in a thousand, or a boy in ten thousand, who could not, and who cannot, regularly enter upon and thoroughly complete the entire Primary, Grammar, High, and Normal School courses of public instruction as at present arranged and conducted in this city, not only with positive safety, but with actual physical improvement during the whole period, were it not for other and wholly outside influences, which none more fully understand and more deeply regret than faithful teachers themselves, but which, unfortunately, they cannot control except in a very indirect manner and to an extremely limited degree.

COMPARATIVE HEALTH OF BOYS AND GIRLS.

The boy's health seldom or never fails. His spontaneous activity and irrepressible playfulness unconsciously impel him to the very out door exercises which become his physical salvation. Until twelve or thirteen, that is, up to the time which usually finds her in the fourth or the third grade, the girl runs, hops, skips, jumps, climbs, and romps nearly as much as the boy, though in different ways, and until that time she is absolutely almost, and relatively quite, the equal of the boy in physical health, and she might remain so but for the slavery of fashion. About that time, however, the fond but foolish mamma, and the proud but prudish papa, in unconscious slavery to social folly, deliberately commence the gradual killing of their girls. Their days of youthful, healthful freedom suddenly begin to depart. They must no longer run races, play tag, drive hoop, jump rope, toss balls, swing on gates, scale fences, and climb trees, because all that makes them "too much like a boy." So there their ways divide and thence their equality ceases. The boy, hand in hand with vigorous, shouting, out-door exercise, tanned by the sunshine and browned by the breezes, sweeps forward from strength to strength and enters with bounding pulse and throbbing health upon the worthier achievement of robust and stalwart young manhood and the glorious physical freedom of masculine independence—

"A heritage, it seems to me, Worth being mate to hold in fee."

But the poor girl may no longer run at the top of her speed, shout at the top of her voice, or play with all her might, lest she become a romp, a hoyden, or a Tom-boy. She must walk softly and slowly, speak faintly and demurely, and curl down in a close room two hours a day to hateful practice upon the inevitable piano, whether she shows the least taste or ability for piano music or not. Subject a boy to restrictions, confinements, deprivations, and compulsions equal or equivalent to those which fashion enforces upon the average girl, and he would presently become far less able to maintain his rights than she is at present to advocate her own.

This topic demands a thousand times the space which any brief article in a volume of this kind can properly afford. Dr. Clarke and others have already begun that discussion and agitation which usually precedes long-needed reforms.

THE USUAL END OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

With this grade the Grammar School work ends. All pupils who honorably complete it receive an engraved certificate of graduation, which entitles them to enter either High School at the beginning of the next school year.

To most pupils the graduation from the Grammar School becomes at once the hight of their scholarly ambition and the end of their formal Public School education.

PERCENTAGE WHO COMPLETE THE COURSE.

To such an extent is this true, that of all who enter the High Schools hardly one in seven graduates from them; while the Grammar Schools graduate about one of every five whom they receive, and the Primary Schools one of every three. That is, out of every one hundred and five who enter the lowest Primary grade about thirty-five creditably complete the four years of primary study and enter the Grammar School; of these thirty-five who enter the Grammar School, about seven regularly complete its four years of study and enter either High School, and of these seven who enter the High School one will regularly complete its course and honorably graduate from it. Thus the Public School Department carries completely through and honorably graduates from its highest grade only one of every one hundred and five, or less than one per cent. of those whom it receives into its lowest Primary grade eleven years before.

CAUSES OF PREMATURE WITHDRAWAL.

Several causes combine to account for this. Even those parents who have least of, and care least for, education, wish their children to read, write, spell, add, subtract, multiply, and divide. Hence, all parents, with very rare exceptions, desire their children to complete the Primary School course certainly, and usually the Grammar School course as well, if the increase of family expenses and the consequent necessity of multiplying even the smallest possible sources of family income enable them to spare them long enough. But even if its attainment were possible, hardly one parent in twenty as highly appreciates, or as strongly desires for his child an equal knowledge of the studies commonly forming the greater part of High School instruction.

A still more common cause of the increased proportional withdrawal of pupils from the higher grades—a reason so powerful, in fact, as to become almost uncontrollable—is the increased pecuniary value of the service of the child with every year of successive growth. Hence, every teacher of ten years' experience in all grades of Public Schools, can testify that the relative number of withdrawals from this cause alone, after making due allowance for the effects of other natural and unavoidable causes, continually increases with each higher grade.

REMEDY SUGGESTED.

A partial preventive, at least, of this premature withdrawal and consequent failure to obtain the full benefit of the entire Public School course, would be the addition of one year to the time now spent in the Grammar School. Such an additional year faithfully devoted to a thorough and final review of the more important branches now imperfectly taught and still more imperfectly learned during the last three years of the present Grammar School course, would make the scholars doubly sure of what they now very seldom thoroughly acquire, and enable them to add some very desirable, practical, and profitable studies which lack of time now compels them to forego, and which they seldom have any subsequent opportunity to pursue.

To a thorough drill in branches as indispensable as Commercial Geography, Business Arithmetic, with Business Penmanship, developed by daily practice in writing Business Forms and practicing Business Correspondence, and including, of course, Practical Bookkeeping, they might add a fair knowledge of Phonography and of such practically valuable natural sciences as Elementary Astronomy, Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Geology, Mineralogy, Zoölogy, Anatomy, Physiology, and Hygiene, and especially of Botany, which, as presented in such recent works as that truly scientific and admirably simple one of Miss Youmans, is almost an education in itself. The study of nature, in any of its departments, is far better fitted to quicken mental life, develop mental growth, and discipline mental power than any other that can possibly be assigned to young minds.

Among the more obvious and immediate advantages of this additional year in the Grammar School would be:

1st. The High and Normal Schools could proportionally extend and improve their courses, and this, in turn, would give us far better qualified teachers. The present system sends into both those schools pupils so young in years, immature in mind, deficient in mental acquisition, lacking in intellectual discipline, and wanting in scholarly culture, that the almost unanimous testimony of experienced teachers is, that they are compelled to lose nearly or quite the whole of the first year in doing over again, or, oftener indeed, in doing for the first time that elementary, preparatory work which should have been thoroughly done before the pupil was permitted to approach either a Normal or a High School.

Receiving pupils thoroughly and uniformly well qualified these higher schools could enter at once upon their own legitimate work, accomplish it better in quality and more completely in degree, and send forth their graduates with far broader culture, better discipline, and higher honor, than is now possible.

2d. Our Colleges, Universities, and Professional Schools would, in turn, receive even more benefits and be able, in still higher degree, to accomplish what they should and would, but cannot for lack of previous culture in their precipitate pupils.

3d. And, chiefly:—many pupils who cannot possibly accomplish, or even attempt, a full three years' course, beyond, or in addition to, that of the Grammar School, could and would gladly remain for the single additional year could it be made to include, as suggested above, such practical and essential studies as the average pupil most needs in later life.

RELATIVE IMPORTANCE OF THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

The Grammar School is indisputably and emphatically the peoples' college. Nearly ten times as many successfully complete its course and honorably graduate from it as from the High School, and nearly twenty times as many go partially through, but are compelled to withdraw within a year or two of graduation. Hence it long since became, and to-day remains, the true popular University, to a far greater degree than any other institution for free popular education. Consequently, the inclusiveness of its scope, the excellence of its methods, the economy of its management, and the completeness of its success are matters of ten times as much interest to the popular mind and heart. This is clearly shown by the fact that not one citizen in one hundred denies the necessity or objects to the general scope and management of the Grammar Schools, while nearly ninety in a hundred decidedly doubt the necessity and questions the methods of a High School whose chief result seems to be to turn out perhaps ten graduates a year that are fit for admission to the University, and produces this meager result with the minimum of economy and the maximum of expense. If we take proper care of the Primary and Grammar Schools, the High Schools, Colleges, and Universities will take care of themselves. Hence it is fully in order, at least once a year, for those immediately charged with the management of Grammar Schools, long experienced in such management, minutely acquainted with every detail, thoroughly conversant with their results, familiar with their excellencies, well knowing and even suffering from their deficiencies, to do what they can toward calling public attention to these public matters and ask a proper consideration of them. This the present writer has partially attempted but very imperfectly performed. Indeed when one considers the general public apathy and remembers how little practical, personal, and intelligent interest even parents themselves appear to cherish, either in the schools themselves, or in those men and women who devote their lives to them, and how frequently a suggestion or a criticism from some practical educator who does know, calls forth only the public censure or even the personal enmity of impractical Directors who do not know, it will plainly appear what it really is, almost always a thankless, and often a dangerous task, to offer hints, criticisms, and suggestions tending only to the improvement of that most vital public interest, which in Fourth of July orations, at least, and in political platforms, if nowhere else, is universally conceded to be the foundation and the palladium of American liberty.

CUTTING OFF EXTRA STUDIES.

The discontinuance of regular daily instruction in French, German, Vocal Music, Drawing, and Phonography, having taken place since January 1, 1874, more properly belongs to the school history of the current year than to that of 1873, which, alone, this article attempts to relate. As, however, it quickly became, and has since remained, a matter of unusual public interest, it may be proper to state that, early in January of this year, the new Board of Education, the first elected from the city at large, without the slightest previous official announcement, or even intimation of such intention, giving opportunity for discussion, calling for testimony from principals, and other educators as to how the matter was working, or taking any adequate pains whatever to ascertain the public will, suddenly abolished instruction in French or German from nearly four hundred classes, and summarily dismissed about fifty ladies and gentlemen previously employed as teachers of those languages.

ABRUPT DISCONTINUANCE.

Whatever may be the diversity of public opinion as to the general desirability, propriety, necessity, or legality of teaching modern languages in the free Public Schools of an English-speaking country, to the disproportionate extent to which they had unquestionably come to be taught in those of this city, public opinion was almost unanimous in condemning the remarkable precipitation and absoluteness which characterized the unexpected act. It looked very much as if a controlling majority of the new Board, unduly exalted by new accession to unwonted power, and temporarily overcome by an infirmity which has beset and overset other minds almost equally great, in previous epochs of the summary and spasmodic legislation of this new State, had quite forgotten that the people had chosen them as their servants and not as their masters; and that, before decreeing so radical and sweeping a change it might have been wise, to say nothing of the modesty and courtesy of the act, to take some measures for learning the will of the people who had made them what they were and whose will they were bound to ascertain and execute. Even if the public will, or the will of a considerable majority of the school-patronizing public, had chosen the partial discontinuance, or the total abolition of free public instruction in French and German, it would have been better to announce such proposed discontinuance or abolition at least three months in advance.

It may be, however, that the new Directors, in the first flush of their fresh-blown wisdom, concluded that, like some surgical operations, the sharper, severer, and more quickly over, the amputation of the study of the modern languages could be made, the better would be the patients' chances of recovery from the sudden shock. It is but simple justice to state, however, that this most precipitate step ever taken by any Board of Education in this city, and the one which immediately worked so many and severe hardships, did not pass without the very strong opposition of a highly respectable minority mainly composed of the former and more experienced members, and so considerable in numbers that an addition of two would have made them the controlling majority. And, also, to add that present symptoms indicate not only that, if the vote were to be taken again, it would be wholly reversed, but that the Board contemplates an early restoration of instruction in French and German, to at least four of the leading Grammar Schools of the city.

VOCAL MUSIC, DRAWING, AND PHONOGRAPHY.

The instruction in Vocal Music and Drawing, which had been so successfully given for several years by generally well-qualified teachers, was also discontinued early in January of this year.

Since the commencement of this article the Board has reëlected the best of the available Special Teachers in those branches and proposes to reëstablish their respective departments. A similar fact is also true of Phonography, and, partially so, of French and German, as was anticipated.

SHOULD FOREIGN LANGUAGES BE TAUGHT IN FREE PUBLIC SCHOOLS, AND, IF SO, WHAT?

Pertinent to this matter of the sudden general exclusion and subsequent partial restoration of instruction in modern languages, and, more especially bearing upon the general question whether they should be taught at all in our free Public Schools, and, if so, what foreign language should be first introduced and to what extent, the following are a few among the many facts and arguments claiming a fair hearing, and worthy of due consideration.

1st. Of the native-born German and French speaking families for any considerable time resident in this city, or in America, hardly one in twenty uses its own native speech at the table, or generally, about the home.

2d. Of those same families hardly one member in a hundred intends any permanent return to, or final residence in, his native land.

3d. The German and French merchants and business men, with their bookkeepers, salesmen, and clerks, almost universally speak English, and habitually use it in nine tenths of their business transactions.

4th. English is fast becoming, if it has not already become, the almost universal language of commerce, in all the leading marts and ports of South America, Africa, India, China, and Japan.

5th. For English speaking youth generally to learn German and French, is going backward, against the current of commerce, immigration, and general progress, while for French and German speaking youth to learn English, is rowing themselves forward into the full strength of its onward sweeping tide.

THE MOST NECESSARY FOREIGN LANGUAGE.

6th. If the Public Schools of this city especially attempt to teach any foreign modern language, it should be, first of all, the Spanish, which, in our inevitable and fast-increasing relations with Mexico and South America, their present pupils are likely to find of far more immediate service and permanent value. An additional argument for this, is the fact that the youth of Spanish speaking countries have very few, if any, general facilities for learning English, compared with the similar facilities now quite generally extended to the youth of Germany and France. Hence, while the French and German youth can and do come to us on the ground of our own common speech, we must qualify our youth to approach the Mexican, the South American, and the Spaniard, on the ground, or through the medium of his common speech, if we expect profitable and satisfactory business, social, or political intercourse.

A complete colloquial mastery of French and German, if such could be imparted to every one of our Public School pupils to-day, would never prove of one tenth the social and business advantage to them which would accrue from a similar acquisition of the Spanish. And, still farther, the Spanish presents less difficulty and consequently can be much more thoroughly learned and far more servicably used, in decidedly less time, than either the French or the German. (Much as certain parties may sneer at the suggestion, and scoff at the suggestor, it is, nevertheless, true that within the next twenty years an ordinary colloquial knowledge of the Chinese language will prove of far greater practical value to its fortunate possessor than an equal knowledge of all three of the other foreign languages already named.) As previously intimated these are but a few of the facts bearing upon this question, and any one of them might be much more strongly put, and, much farther expanded, did ability and opportunity permit. They may serve, however, as a contribution to that public discussion and consideration, which will end in less attention to the far-off and comparatively valueless languages of trans-continental and trans-oceanic countries, and increased provision for the study of the native speech of millions living upon the same continent with ourselves, and with whom we, and especially our youth, must inevitably come into constantly closer and rapidly increasing business, social and political relations.

THE HIGH SCHOOLS.

There are two—the Boys' and the Girls'.

The Boys' High School is established to afford boys who have graduated from the Grammar Schools, or who have gained an equivalent education elsewhere, an opportunity for a more liberal education, and to fit those who desire it for entering the University of California.

The Girls' High School furnishes those girls who have regularly graduated from the Grammar Schools, or have received an equivalent education elsewhere, such higher culture as may prepare them for admission to the University of California; and qualify those who desire it for the profession of teaching.

The regular course in each school occupies three years. The Normal course consists of an additional year after the girl has duly completed the regular High School course.

It will be noticed that the boy who may wish to fit himself for the profession of teaching finds no provision made for him by the public schools of the city.

There is a strong and rapidly-growing conviction that the High Schools of this city, as at present conducted, are by far the most expensive, and much the least profitable, of all the departments of public instruction. Comparing the annual number of graduates with the annual cost of conducting the two schools, will presently disclose one reason of this conviction, even if it does not demonstrate the full truth of this assertion.

In the organization, support, management, and improvement of public instruction, as far as provided for in the ordinary Primary and Grammar Schools of both city and country, the people, through their agents, and, generally, in the choice of their agents, have done nearly, if not quite, as well as could have been expected; but in the organization and conduct of the High Schools and the University, they have fallen, and appear content to remain, very far short, not of any fine, impracticable theories, but of the actual performance which was, and is, really attainable under the circumstances.

In partial proof or illustration of this, consider the following facts in the management of the High School Department of this city:

1st. It maintains two separate schools, two district buildings, two well-salaried principals, two numerous sets of duplicate teachers, two sets of apparatus, and two libraries, where one comprehensive school, one commodious building, one competent principal, one set of thoroughly qualified teachers, one set of apparatus, and one library, could do the proper work and serve the special use of a High School, not merely as well, but very decidedly better.

2d. It may not be generally known that, within two years, the management of both High Schools has returned to the old, obsolete, Primary District, country-school plan of requiring every teacher to instruct his or her own class in all, or very nearly all, the branches which they pursue. In practical common sense and daily efficiency this plan is fully equal to what would be the case in the U. S. Armory if each individual workman were required to make all the parts of each gun with which he had anything to do. Everybody knows that every teacher, like every mechanic, has some specialty; some one thing which he naturally does with greater ease, efficiency, and success, and that the best management is that which assigns to each teacher those branches in which he is specially accomplished, and therefore can teach with the greatest economy of his own power, and, what is of far greater consequence, with far greater profit to the class. This sound principle, almost everywhere practically recognized, has been disregarded and is still ignored in the High Schools of this city by educational officials, who sometimes seem to act as if very few principles in the science and art of successful teaching had been thoroughly tested and almost unanimously settled by the most advanced educators of the world years before any of them began their costly experiments in this community.

This is not a theoretical question to be argued; it is an actual fact to be proved by experience and testimony; and even this proof need be brought only to those who, by reason of the life-long pressure of other and very different interests, have been so completely engrossed that they have never found or taken the time necessary to adequately understand and judge this most vital subject.

One of the strangest intellectual or social facts of the day is, that, while in all other public interests, or even departments of private business, we readily concede the superiority of the expert, defer to his opinion, and decide by his testimony, in the matter of education every man feels himself competent to pronounce the most decided judgments even upon the most complicated points; and a peculiarly unfortunate feature of the case is, that those most notoriously destitute of both education and experience are the most aggravatingly positive and self-assertive in the announcement of their most ridiculous opinions, and the precipitate enforcement of their most damaging plans.

Each successive set of new and inexperienced School Directors appears too prone to act as if its predecessors had known next to nothing; and its first duty, in its full flush of new-felt power and unconscious ignorance, was to upset something to begin with, as if to prove beyond question how much more it knew in a week than its dull predecessors had been able to find out in two years. If the results of such precipitate and self-conceited action had not, too often, been so injurious as well as costly, it would be almost laughable to notice how almost uniformly the average Director knows such an immense deal more about the efficient management of the almost endlessly multiplied details of a large school department, charged with the public instruction of thirty thousand children, during his first month of office, than he ever does again. And it is almost as entertaining, and vastly more satisfactory, to observe how uniformly he gradually settles into the final conviction that those same predecessors did know a little something after all, and that the public good does not absolutely require him to signalize the commencement of his official career by suddenly upsetting as much as possible of what they had done.

What the common sense of the people demand of our High Schools is this:

1st. Their union into one centrally-located, conveniently planned, commodiously-constructed building, amply yet economically furnished, and finished within and without with such solidity, simplicity, and appropriateness that the very sight of it should be a daily lesson in the highest school of true architecture.

For the site, take a block, or the center of some block, at the junction of Oak and Webster streets, or within half a dozen blocks of that locality, in whichever direction the best adapted or obtainable site may be found. Take a lot, one hundred and fifty by two hundred and fifty feet, in the center of such a block, and have four avenues of approach from the center of each side of the inclosing block. This would give the necessary freedom from the noise of adjacent streets, which is so great to any schools placed upon or very near any main thoroughfare daily traversed by loaded wagons, heavy drays, and rattling cars. In such a building, let the recitation rooms, library, reference room, philosophical, chemical, and astronomical apparatus, and teachers' rooms occupy the central part, and devote each wing to the study rooms of each of the separate classes or divisions; each sex by itself, or both together, as the authorities may determine.

2d. Into such a building bring both the present High Schools, and over the one grand, central, union High School thus created, place one experienced, accomplished educator, full of energy, enthusiasm, and, above all, of that personal magnetism which always distinguishes the true teacher; reduce the present number of classes, and, consequently, of teachers, fully one third, retain the best of those now employed, or get better, and diminish the annual cost of the entire High School instruction of this city by at least twenty thousand dollars a year, besides having it done in a much more uniform, thorough, and scholarly manner.

MORE PRACTICAL SUPERINTENDENCY.

During the year, the regular biennial election placed the Superintendency again in the hands of one of the most experienced practical teachers upon the Coast, who was still further qualified for the office by two previous terms in the same capacity. Superintendent Denman signalized his return to office by procuring the immediate and much-needed discipline of several careless teachers who decidedly needed official admonition. With the aid of his able Deputy, Prof. Leggett, he has already initiated more minute, practical, and helpful supervision of the methods of instruction throughout the different grades.

The present Board of Education, which came into office December 1, 1873, is the first elected under the new law, which provides for the choice of School Directors from the city at large, instead of one from each ward, as had previously been the case. As an almost necessary consequence, the personal character and general ability of its members are generally considered a decided gain upon those of previous years last past. Their principal deficiencies are those which time and experience alone can remove, as two or three of their more prominent official acts have already partially demonstrated.

NEEDS.

The most important needs of the School Department, as specified in our issue of last year, remain substantially unchanged. As an agitation of nearly ten years has resulted in securing the choice of Directors from the city at large, it is to be hoped that in less than as many years longer, the public mind may be brought to perceive not only the permissibility and the propriety, but the absolute necessity of making it illegal to place any but educated citizens in charge of public educational interests.

I.—FREE BOOKS.

Many claim that the Public School is not, and can not be, really and wholly a free school until the State provides free books as well as free teachers, houses, furniture, stationery, and necessary apparatus; in fact, that the very phrase "necessary apparatus," must, first of all, include the requisite school books, as an indispensable part of the apparatus necessary to successful study and auxiliary to profitable teaching. Without attempting a decision or even a discussion which would be wholly gratuitous in a country where each man generally insists on his inalienable right to bring in his own verdict whether he has heard the evidence or not, and zealously forms and forces his own opinion whether he understands the matter or not, or even venturing upon any discussion, it is certainly pertinent and should be profitable to inquire what advantages have followed the free-book system in those cities which, by actual experiment, have taken the question out of the domain of theory, assertion, and argument, into that of actual performance, proof, and demonstration.

Among these advantages, are:

1st. The immediate saving of from one quarter to one third of the original cost of all school books. As is well known, the ordinary bookseller, buying in comparatively limited quantities, receives a discount of from twenty-five to thirty-three and one third per cent. The city or the State, buying in immensely larger quantities, could obtain even greater discount.

In San Francisco alone, with its present number of public school children, the saving from this single source would amount to nearly forty thousand dollars ($40,000) a year, or quite enough to build two excellent school houses annually, amply accommodating from eight hundred to one thousand of those pupils now inconveniently quartered in rented rooms. If the parents and taxpayers choose to continue paying this, and an even greater sum annually to the retail booksellers instead of saving it toward the payment of their other taxes, it is, of course, their own affair. And it may appear, and will appear, in this paper, if time and space permit, that in spite of the immediate loss to the retail bookseller which, it might at first seem, would result from the adoption of this plan, its carrying out would involve results which might partially if not wholly compensate him. This, however, is a question of universal public good rather than of the gain or loss of any small clique of men doing business solely for their own pecuniary profit.

2d. With the provisions hereafter noted, it would save fully one half the wear and tear and loss of books, and thereby cause them to last at least twice as long. This would be equivalent to an annual cash saving of fifty per cent.

Our Public Schools have an average membership, upon the lowest calculation, of twenty-four thousand. Fully one half of these, probably a larger part, go home to lunch and return, thus passing over the distance between the home and the school four times a day. Assuming that the average distance between the school and the home is only one quarter of a mile—which is below the fact—ten thousand children traveling this distance twice a day, and another ten thousand going over it four times a day, give us a distance of fifteen thousand miles a day, seventy-five thousand miles a week, three hundred thousand miles a month, and three million three hundred thousand miles a year, over which these twenty thousand school children carry, drag, swing, tote, or lug their frequently-falling packets and bundles of poorly-bound school books; battering them by frequent collision and dropping, straining and breaking them by over-strapping, and often losing them altogether.

As the plan of furnishing free books, at public expense, generally includes the provision or requirement that, as public property, the books must not be taken from the school room, an additional and even greater saving would result from thus cutting off the wear and tear of frequent and generally careless street transportation.

Should any ask when and where the pupils can learn their lessons if not allowed to carry the textbooks home, the answer is the simple and obvious one, "in school." This can be effected in two ways: By devoting less time to recitation and more to instruction and study. Nearly twice as much time is now consumed in recitation as needs be or would be if teachers, generally, knew how to conduct recitations in a business-like way, and pupils were properly instructed how to study, prepare lessons, and make recitations. Also, by adding one hour to the present school time, and devoting this hour wholly to instruction and study. As shown elsewhere, even with the proposed addition of one hour, the actual time spent in school work in the school room, exclusive of intermission, recesses, opening and closing exercises, etc., would still be but a small fraction over five hours. And of this time never more than an hour and a half at one time are the pupils kept continuously in their rooms, even in the highest grades, while in the lower grades, and especially in the primary classes, more frequent recesses, or times of physical exercise, make the longest continuous confinement even shorter.

If any ask what the teacher would be doing while the class is studying, the answer is: She should be correcting papers, assisting more backward pupils, or hearing one division of the class recite while the other studies.

3d. It would also save the expenses of sachels, bags, knapsacks, book-holders, and straps, which, including their unavoidable wear and tear and frequent loss, make quite a considerable item every year, especially in a family having three or four school-going members.

4th. It would improve the figure and gait or carriage of the children.

Any one who has observed the shuffling, hampered, drooping, round-shouldered, swinging, or rolling gait of the average book-laden pupils needs no proof of this. An obvious cause, or a cause which becomes obvious by the merest statement, is this: The child carries, we will say, but two pounds' weight of books, suspended or slung in a bag, sachel, or strap, so as to hang or dangle from six inches to a foot and a half below the hand, and constantly swinging against or hindering the free motion of the lower leg, ancle, or foot, or even hitting and scraping the ground. To say nothing of the droop in the upper extremities, how is a child to walk freely and gracefully with such a constant impediment. Little wonder that our dancing and drill-masters complain of the extreme difficulty of teaching the average boy or girl an upright, easy, and graceful gait. And less wonder that parents complain of the frequent loss of many books and the falling to pieces of many more. A book must be exceedingly well bound, indeed, to withstand the straining and banging of frequent transportation at the hands of an ordinary juvenile of the present day.

Those fond of statistics may add one more fact: allowing that the average weight of school books carried back and forth at least twice a day—is two pounds only, and hundreds carry from four to five pounds—and that the average distance of the pupil's home from his school is but a quarter of a mile—and hundreds live a mile or more away—and also allow them to attend school upon an average two hundred days a year—and hundreds attend the whole two hundred and twenty days of the entire school year—and it follows immediately that our twenty thousand school children lug through the streets twenty tons of school books ten thousand miles a day, or four thousand tons two million miles a year. And this calculation, in all its elements, weight of books, distance traveled, number of days, and number of children, is within and below the truth in every particular. The argument needs no aid from exaggeration.

THE PLAN NOT NEW.

This proposed plan of free books is by no means new. Larger American cities than ours adopted it from fifteen to twenty years ago, and the present writer merely borrowed the idea from them when he suggested it here nearly ten years since.

ADVANTAGES OF THE SYSTEM.

Its adoption, or fair trial, would involve the following points:

1st. The State or the city should furnish all necessary school books and stationery free of direct cost to the individual pupil or his parent.

2d. The pupil should never take the books from the school room.

3d. The pupil or his parent should immediately pay for all loss of, or damage to, books, resulting from his own negligence or abuse.

Certainly no one could reasonably object to the system on the ground of cost, as the parent would pay in increased taxes the wholesale cost of the books, while he would save in private family expenses, their retail cost, thus making a net gain of the difference, which is commonly one fourth of the retail price, and, under the system of very large wholesale purchases, would become even more.

THE CASE OF THE CHILDLESS TAX PAYER.

Of course, the objector would instantly bring up the case of the childless property owner, or the wealthy citizen and heavy tax payer whose children do not attend the Public Schools. To him we answer at once that the general intelligence of a community directly increases its desirability as a place of residence, and correspondingly enhances its value as a place of investment, and that the three great public fountains of general intelligence and popular enlightenment are the school, the church, and the press, and that the church gains few intelligent voluntary members, and the press finds very few readers and fewer subscribers in communities wherein the school is not doing or has not done its work.

What would lands and houses be worth in a city or a country without schools? And which costs more, to pay for the single item of public schools or to pay the extra taxes necessary for the efficient maintenance of reform schools, county jails, State prisons, State sheriffalty, county constabulary, and city police, to say nothing of the immense cost of courts, the salaries of judges, and the fees of the vast army of lawyers, all of which are greatly increased, if not principally supported or primarily caused by the ignorance of clients, criminals, and convicts. The argument might lose no strength by including also the vast annual cost of hospitals, infirmaries, asylums, and alms houses, most of whose inmates find their way thither through causes which efficient popular instruction, made compulsory upon all, would have very largely diminished, if not wholly removed or prevented. With the kindest of feeling towards both lawyers and doctors, the student of true political economy cannot help seeing that they mainly live upon the ignorance and vice of their clients and patients, and that in proportion as the three great teachers of mankind, the editor, the preacher, and the teacher, do their work thoroughly and universally the service of the doctor and the lawyer, at least in their present spheres, must continually grow less and less. Whether true or not, it has been often said and oftener thought, that one great reason why compulsory education, and other educational reforms, encounter so many rebuffs and progress so slowly, is the apathy, indifference, and sometimes positive opposition which they meet at the hands of the lawyer members of various State Legislatures and prospective office-seekers, who manipulate ward meetings, district primaries, and county conventions, whose ignorant members habitually cheat themselves with the self-complimentary delusion that they are having their own way and voting as they please, when the truth is that a few selfish politicians, compacted into a little clique or ring, have completely captured them and are leading them whithersoever they will. However loudly these office-seekers and ring-makers may clamor for free schools and shout for universal popular education, they are the very things which at heart they especially dread and detest. Between them there is and must be that natural enmity which begets and nourishes a continual conflict. As the masses rise the demagogues fall. And this is true, not only in matters educational and political, but even more so in moral and religious interests. One or the other must go to the wall, and the people, having made up their minds which it shall be, are beginning to practically understand that the free Common School is the grand source of mental enlightenment and civil enfranchisement, and to firmly resolve that neither political tyrants nor religious despots shall take it from them.

II.—MORE HOURS OF SCHOOL EVERY DAY.

Fully aware of the strong oppositon which the merest hint of such a suggestion will almost certainly call forth from the majority of teachers, his experience of nearly twenty years has fully convinced the writer that an addition of at least one hour to the present number of school hours each day, with proper accompanying provisions and regulations, would very greatly improve the quality of the regular school work in all the grades, and, at the same time, rather improve than injure the health of the pupils. He thinks so for the following reasons:

1st. The present total daily time now devoted to actual school work, in the school room and under school regulations, including study time, recitation time, and all forms of regular school work, even in the Grammar and High Schools, is but four and one half hours a day. And, if we exclude the time usually occupied by calling the roll, receiving reports, etc., it is still less than this. In fact, in the highest classes, and under the strictest teachers, the most faithful pupil devotes hardly four hours a day to anything like earnest, absorbing, or really hard study. And even this small amount is not continuous; twice a day it is broken by recesses of fifteen minutes each, while at noon a solid hour of rest and recreation separates the morning work from that of the afternoon. Besides this, in accordance with a well-known law of both physical and mental effort, the variety of the work becomes in itself often equivalent to a full rest.

Requiring one hour more of school each day, with the accompanying proviso that the pupil should not ordinarily study at home, would involve or secure the following advantages:

1st. Instead of costing the pupil more time it would actually cost him less. Home-study is almost universally necessarily broken by unavoidable interruptions. Few families are so commodiously housed that every boy or girl can have his or her own private or quiet little study room. Studying in the midst of younger children, almost constantly interrupted by surrounding domestic noises, and by the rattling conversation of heedless callers, the average pupil, with mind comparatively undisciplined in self-control, can hardly accomplish as much in two hours as he easily accomplishes in a single hour in the school room, where all the surroundings, as far as practicable, are made to favor successful study.

2d. It would enable the teacher to train the pupils in right methods of study. In the acquisition of knowledge, the how is often fully as important as the what. Many a pupil with brains enough in head, and time enough on hand, has failed simply through not knowing how to use both brain and time. Right methods of study enable even average pupils to accomplish amounts of real scholarly work previously thought well-nigh impossible. Teaching how to study is, probably, the most neglected part of the teacher's work as at present conducted.

3d. It would tend to equalize the diverse conditions under which many pupils now study. Hundreds of boys and girls not only have no regular household helping to be done in and about the house, but they have parents who can, and often gladly do, help them in their lessons, not only by giving them quiet rooms for study, but by frequent personal aid in hard places. Other hundreds, of fully equal natural ability, have hardly ten successive minutes of uninterrupted opportunity to study while out of the school. They must run upon dozens of errands and do scores of little household services, exacted by parents who cannot understand the conditions or requisites of an education which they never received. Every thoughtful teacher soon learns the vast difference in real moral credit due to different pupils for a seemingly equal performance. One comes from a home full of helps; the other from a home obstructed with nearly every conceivable hindrance. The most careful and conscientious marking cannot always justly discriminate between the good and ill-desert of pupils sitting side by side and making apparently equally good recitations. While no human power, at present, at least, can banish these great inequalities at home, it would seem an important and a fully practicable step toward justice for public authority to partially obviate them by providing increased time for study in school, where all can have an equally good chance to do equal work in equal time. This suggested extension of time is not intended to involve any increase either of the number of studies or of the time of recitation; simply to provide more time for study in school; that is, to come nearer to doing school work, in school time, on school premises, in the midst of school influences and under uniform school control, and thus send the scholar home free for home work in home time. If carried into execution, the total time spent in all recitations and studies each day would still be less than five hours, and this would be broken by an additional recess into such intervals that no pupil would ever be kept continuously in his seat a moment longer than at present.

III.—SINGLE DESKS FOR ALL GRADES.

Nearly all the Grammar grades have them already, but it seems not yet to be generally understood that the little ones of the Primary grades have even greater need of them. Almost the first necessity of such grades is that of frequent physical exercise, and the first necessity for free and profitable physical exercise, after pure air and clear sunshine, at least, is convenient room. Double desks necessarily compel the occupants of two opposite seats to rise toward each other and to stand together in the same aisle. Such an arrangement crowds the pupils so that by no possibility, in any room of ordinary size, can more than half the pupils exercise freely at once. Single desks, having a separate aisle at the side of each row, give the occupant of each seat, his own exclusive space, in his own aisle, opposite his own desk and chair.

2d. Single desks and chairs, by giving each pupil his own particular spot, and keeping him more nearly in it, increases his distance from his neighbor's and thus diminish at once his opportunity and his consequent temptation to whisper or communicate in any other way. They thus become a material clause in the practical answer of the petition, "Lead us not into temptation," which some of the children, at least, are taught to offer, in the home, if not at school.

3d. They tend to develop the ideas of exclusive proprietorship and consequent increased personal responsibility for cleanliness, neatness, etc., which every child feels for years before he understands the ponderous polysyllables which express them. Every experienced teacher knows that seating two pupils at the same desk divides the responsibility and diminishes the carefulness of each. If, as old "Agesilaus, King of Sparta," used to say, "children should be taught those things which they will practice when they come to be men and women," even the lowest Primary grade is not too early a time or place in which to begin such teaching.

Other matters would claim notice did time and space permit, but, aside from the needs specified last year, this of single desks and separate chairs is of such immediate and constant physical and mental importance, and involves so many direct consequences important to both pupils and teachers, that it can least afford to wait.

CONCLUSION.

The free Public School is the infallible pulse of true republican vitality. It is the unerring register of the past, the certain index of the present, and the sure prophecy of the future. Its relations to the national life are closer, deeper, more infinite, and more vital than those of any or all other public interests. It is the fountain of civil life, the source of political health, the preserver of social stability, the precursor of broader civil liberty, and the harbinger of true religious freedom.

"What think you of the Public School?" is the simple challenge by which freedom's watchful sentinels may most readily and certainly distinguish between the friends and the foes of popular enlightenment, personal independence, and national freedom.

More clearly than any other human utterance the Public School repeats the primal fiat of recorded time when the Divine command "Let light be," first broke the long and lifeless reign of "chaos and old night." Social chaos and mental night hear the word and fly before it.

Its foe is the friend of political slavery and the ally of religious despotism. No matter under what specious guise he may strive to cloak his deadly hostility, he is the nation's most dangerous foe.

More important than railways, more necessary than steamships, more essential than telegraphs, more vital, in short, than all forms of material prosperity or shapes of physical progress, are the early organization, the careful and constant fostering, the liberal endowment, and the continual elevation of the Public School. It is, in fact, the mother and the nurse of all these. Greater than the printing press, the steam-engine, and the electric telegraphs were the minds which originated them and have brought them thus far toward perfection. And far greater than any score of even the greatest minds is that wide-spreading and all permeating popular education of which these minds were but unusual outgrowths and culminations. The average hight of a continent depends not as much upon the loftiness of a few scattered dominating peaks rising here and there far above the surrounding country, but, rather, upon the general elevation of the broad central plateaus above which these great landmarks tower, and which support and sustain them. So with the average mental elevation of a nation; we truly measure it, not by the hights of intellectual culture reached by its few rare and almost solitary minds, but rather by the hight of knowledge to which sound education, underlying the whole social fabric, universally diffused and everywhere operative, has gradually uplifted the whole mass of the common people.

Private Educational Institutions.

The total number of colleges and private schools in this city is nearly one hundred, of which twenty-one are under the control of the Catholic denomination. Many of these institutions are in a very flourishing condition, and the private schools will compare favorably with the public schools for thoroughness of instruction and excellence of discipline.

From the report of the school census for 1873, it will be seen that the number of children between six and fifteen years of age that have attended private schools for the year ending June 30, 1873, was five thousand two hundred and eighty-five. The number attending public schools for the same period, twenty-four thousand one hundred and fifty-four.

In addition to the attendance of the private schools, there are about thirteen hundred children under six years of age at the different infant schools and benevolent institutions, and about twelve hundred attending the higher private schools and colleges.

ST. IGNATIUS' COLLEGE.

This well-known literary institution, located on Market Street, between Fourth and Fifth, which is conducted by the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, was first opened for the reception of students on the fifteenth day of October, 1855, and was incorporated under the law of the State on the thirtieth of April, 1859, and empowered to confer the usual degrees and academical honors. Since its commencement, this institution has been attended with the highest degree of prosperity and success. The course of instruction pursued is thorough, and comprises a complete classical, mathematical, and philosophical course of training, calculated to prepare the pupil for entering upon the study of any of the professions, or commencing any business vocation. The college is provided with an extensive laboratory, comprising all the necessary appliances for the assaying of metals and making chemical analysis, which is an important feature not generally found in institutions of this character. There is a telegraphic room, with an instrument in operation, where the business of operating is taught. The "Ignatian Literary Society," for exercise in debate; the "Philhistorian Debating Society," to promote the knowledge of history; the "Loyola Scientific Academy," for the cultivation and promotion of the study of natural sciences; a College Band and singing classes, are established in the college for the improvement of the pupils.

The founders of this institution, foreseeing the rapid progress of the Queen City of the Pacific, purchased some years since the property upon which the magnificent college edifice has since been erected. This lot has a frontage of two hundred and seventy-five feet on Market, and the same on Jessie Street, with a depth of three hundred and fifty feet. The present building—the cost of which, independent of the lot, was $160,000—although one of the finest architectural ornaments of the city, is only a part of the extent contemplated. When the extensive additions are made, the entire structure will rival anything of the kind to be found in our portion of the country. The present building is admirably adapted to the purposes for which it was designed, being abundantly lighted and well ventilated in every portion; the ceilings are lofty, and spacious halls run through the building. A large play ground is attached, with a commodious shelter from the rain, affording ample means for the physical exercise of the pupils. In fact, nothing has been neglected which is at all conducive to mental and physical training. The number of students in the college at present is over five hundred, under a staff of twenty-two professors and teachers. [See Advertisement, page xxxix.]

SANTA CLARA COLLEGE, SANTA CLARA.

This establishment is under the superintendence of the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, and is open to all who choose to avail themselves of its advantages. It is situated in the beautiful Valley of Santa Clara, so celebrated for the mildness and salubrity of its climate, and is about three miles distant from San José and quite close to the Southern Pacific Railroad.

The college was founded in 1851. On the 28th of April, 1855, it was incorporated and empowered to confer degrees and academical honors, and to exercise all the rights and privileges common to any other literary institution in the United States. It has a full staff of professors, and presents advantages for the mental, physical, and moral training of the students unsurpassed in California. It possesses a complete philosophical apparatus, purposely made in Paris for Santa Clara College, and furnished with all necessary instruments for experiments in mechanics, hydraulics, pneumatics, caloric, electricity, magnetism, optics, acoustics, and surveying. New and important additions are being made every year to keep pace with the progress of science.

The chemical laboratory is provided with a full assortment of chemicals, a very good set of furnaces, and all that is necessary for the different kinds of chemical analysis. The museum of natural history comprises a valuable collection of mineralogy and geology; also three thousand specimens of shells and other natural curiosities. As an accessory to the scientific department, there is a photographic gallery, where the students who wish may learn photography in all its different branches. Practical lessons are given also on the electric telegraph. The college library numbers about twelve thousand volumes. [See Advertisement, page xli.]

HEALD'S BUSINESS COLLEGE.

The object of this school, as its name implies, is to educate for business. It is the leading commercial school of the Pacific Coast, and one of the largest, most complete, and most thorough institutions of the kind in the United States. During the past year, it has had in attendance over six hundred students, which is a considerable increase over preceding years. Among its pupils are the sons of many of our most prominent business men. The plan of operation adopted by this school is quite novel and interesting. Instead of a dry and tedious study of mere text books, actual practice in business affairs is so united to the theoretical study of accounts, penmanship, arithmetic, etc., that the progress of the student becomes easy and rapid. The information thus acquired is also of the most practical nature, and ready for immediate use. In order to carry out the system of business training, the school room has been fitted up to represent a miniature business world. There are in active operation banks, jobbing, and importing houses, insurance and real estate offices, commission houses, express offices, wholesale and retail merchandising houses, etc., etc. In all of these establishments an actual business is carried on by the student, who acts in turn as clerk, salesman, bookkeeper, cashier, agent, merchant, broker, and banker. In these various capacities he makes out all varieties of business and legal papers, and writes up notes, drafts, bills, statements of accounts, orders, receipts, invoices, account sales, certificates, bills of lading, contracts, deeds, leases, bills of sale, articles of copartnership, etc. As a merchant, he buys, sells, ships, consigns, orders, barters, insures, and keeps a complete and systematic record of his business transactions. As a banker, he receives and pays out deposits, makes collections, loans, discounts, buys and sells, exchanges, issues certificates of deposit, keeps the corporation books, issues and transfers stock, and enters up the results of all these transactions in the proper books. In fact, so thorough and practical is this system of instruction that the graduates of this school are fitted to pass directly from the school room to the counting room.

This school is one of the Bryant and Stratton Colleges, so long and favorably known in the Eastern States. The schools now number thirty-six, of the leading business colleges in the country, and are associated under the title of the "International Business College Association." This association meets annually for the discussion and advancement of the cause of commercial education. The scholarships of this college are good for tuition in all the schools of the association.

There is also connected with the college a telegraph institute, where young men and ladies are fitted for telegraphic operators. This department has been fitted up at a great expense, and is one of the most complete of the kind in the country. The office is supplied with a great variety of telegraphic instruments and electrical apparatus. A line of wire has been extended around the city for the practice of the students, and there are at present over twenty offices on the line, thus affording pupils an opportunity of writing with experienced operators.

Until recently, ladies have not been received into the college for tuition, but they are now admitted into all the school departments, and already about twenty-five ladies are availing themselves of this opportunity for obtaining a practical education and learning telegraphy. We are told by the teachers that their progress has been very satisfactory in every case, thus demonstrating the fact that women can readily learn business.

This school is now permanently located in what is known as the College Building, at No. 24 Post Street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets. This building was constructed over three years ago, and these apartments specially arranged for the college. The rooms are very fine for this purpose, and, we are told, are in every respect equal to those of the best schools of like nature in our largest Eastern cities. A visit to them during school hours will always prove interesting as well as instructive.

The faculty of the college comprises the following well-known teachers and officers: E. P. Heald, President; F. C. Woodbury, Secretary; A. E. Castle and J. D. Blackman, Accounts and Penmanship; F. Seregni, Plain and Ornamental Writing; H. M. Stearns, Bookkeeping and English Studies; T. R. Southern, Mathematics and Penmanship; Miss C. Snell, Assistant Theoretical Department; O. Brooks, Superintendent of the Telegraphic Department; Mrs. A. M. Hatch, Phonography; W. P. Casey, Surveying and Navigation; A. P. Du Bief, Alexander Elgass, and C. F. Morel, Modern Languages; and Lloyd Baldwin, Commercial Law.

Medical Colleges.

There are two medical colleges in this city—the "Medical Department of the University of California," and the "Medical College of the Pacific." The latter was established in 1858, and was, until 1872, the "Medical Department of the University of the Pacific." It is now the "Medical Department of University College," and is situated on Stockton Street, near Geary. The former was established in 1864 under a special charter, by Dr. H. H. Toland of this city, who has recently conveyed the entire property of the institution, including the college building, situated on the corner of Stockton and Francisco streets, to the University of California, under whose fostering care its operations will be hereafter conducted. Both have a very efficient corps of Professors—the most eminent physicians in the State. The attendance upon these colleges is not large; yet from some cause, both are continued with good assurance of success.

CALIFORNIA COLLEGE OF PHARMACY.

Established by the druggists of San Francisco for the purpose of education in the branches pertaining to the practice of Pharmacy. Incorporated August 7, 1872. Trustees: William T. Wenzell, President; J. Winchell Forbes, Secretary; J. G. Steele, Treasurer; Jno. Calvert, Wm. Simpson, and W. E. Mayhew, who are authorized to solicit subscriptions for the capital stock.

The Faculty of the College will be composed of actual Pharmacists, and the practical as well as the theoretical portion of the science of Pharmacy will be thoroughly and experimentally demonstrated; the every-day counter manipulations sharing equal attention with the more abstruse details of the laboratory, as it is the aim of the management to qualify all who avail themselves of the advantages offered, to cope with any and every emergency that may arise in the transaction of the business of legitimate pharmacy. The present course commenced on March 1, 1873, includes Materia Medica, Pharmacy, Chemistry, and Botany.

Benevolent and Social Associations.

San Francisco, as well as all California, can ever point with exultant satisfaction to the many well-endowed and well-organized asylums, orders, and associations for the refuge of the aged, infirm, and helpless, and for the relief of want and suffering. Whatever the superficial observer may say, or the cynic write, of the heterogeneous, rough, and uncultivated adventurers, as they have called the pioneers of this coast, the institutions of benevolence, of learning, and social order, are monuments of character that reply with unanswerable arguments to thoughtless aspersions. Our people, seeking adventure and wealth, and a new field of enterprise, are still workers in every line that leads to the fulfillment of their hopes, and therefore may neglect the many elegant exhibitions of ostentatious wealth so attractive in older countries; but the innate nobility of character is more truly shown by the kindly care bestowed upon the unfortunate by Government and by individuals; to those in our midst, and to friends and fellow-countrymen of other lands. Here have gathered people of many different nations, each honorably emulating the other in the care for the sick and wounded and poor. To systematize and render most effective these objects, associations have been formed—some by the community in general, some by religious sects; others by people of certain nationalities, by secret societies, trades, clubs, etc.; those of general admittance being liberally aided by appropriations from the State Treasury.

To relieve suffering, assist the depressed, and bury the dead, have been the objects of the benevolent societies formed. The good deeds accomplished and the constant care and watchfulness exercised, have given to San Francisco a world-wide reputation, which is richly deserved. Aside from the organized societies, the popular benevolence is proven by the large sums often given for various objects at the call of charity or sympathy. Millions of dollars have been sent abroad when the good heart thought it was required to alleviate distress, either among our own people or those of foreign lands, and never is relief called in vain for any individual case of destitution found in our midst. Fortunately, cases of destitution are rare, and the provisions made by the law and by social organizations prevent any necessity for such distress as drives to importunate beggary. The liberality of Californians is proverbial; and when any great calamity befalls a distant people, the eyes of the world are at once turned toward San Francisco—to the land of gold—for aid, and the countless thousands sent upon many different occasions are proof that they did not look in vain.

This unequaled munificence of our citizens has been also manifested in their generous support of the many organizations for social and charitable purposes. There are now one hundred such organizations in the city; and many of these are divided into lodges, groves, stamms, vereins, councils, posts, etc., making a total of two hundred and fifty, some having upwards of a thousand members. These are of every class of reputable orders, and include those of every nationality that make up our population. From their number and strength, it would appear as though nearly all the people of San Francisco were members of one or other of these orders. Their wealth is shown in the possession of asylums, halls, hospitals, and schools, and the fine appearance members make on days of public celebration.

As their name implies, the general object of the societies is benevolence, the assistance of unfortunate members, or their wives and children when in sickness, burying them when dead, or, if of foreign birth, aiding their return to their native land. But by no means do all limit their charities to their members. Several of these noble organizations are controlled by ladies whose care is for the orphan, the sick, and needy of all classes, and for the reclamation of the degraded of their own sex. Five asylums, generous homes for the tender orphans, are under their control, and the excellent condition of the charge is evidence of the care bestowed. As early as 1851, the gentle Sisters of Charity, as ever devoting their lives to the holy cause of doing good, founded the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum on Market Street, and continued it, with the addition of schools and further extensions, until 1873, when they removed to South San Francisco, where they had erected a large and commodious edifice, suitable for the accommodation of eight hundred children. The Protestant Orphan Asylum was organized by prominent ladies of this city in 1851. In 1854, they erected a fine building of stone, to which additions have since been made, the whole at an expense of $60,000, on the corner of Laguna and Haight streets. At this asylum are one hundred and sixty children, unfortunate in their orphanage, but most fortunate in having such a noble home and such parental care as the benevolent ladies have prepared for them. The Ladies' Protection and Relief Society occupy an extensive and commodious building, erected at an expense of $50,000, on the corner of Franklin and Post Streets, where they have over two hundred children under their care. A few years since, our Hebrew citizens organized the Pacific Hebrew Orphan Asylum, and have adopted measures for the speedy erection of a building that will meet the wants of that portion of our population.

But the ladies' charity does not end here. The San Francisco Female Hospital; the Lying-in and Foundling Asylum; the Magdalen Asylum; the St. Mary's Ladies' Society, and numerous others, attest the scope of their ministering care. The kind attention and the liberal expenditure by the ladies of San Francisco, without distinction of nationality, race, or religion, are most honorable and praiseworthy, and every citizen of San Francisco is justly proud of their untiring exertions.

The broad field of labor of the San Francisco Benevolent Association has been well filled, the members exercising a generous guardianship over the distress and wants of the city. Neither membership in other societies, nor race or condition, forbid their action, but their compassion, like the cloak of charity, covers all. The Young Men's Christian Association occupies a noble position among the benevolent societies of San Francisco. Possessing a fine hall, with library, gymnasium, baths, etc., it is well enabled to extend the hand of charity to all, to guide the erring, and to give pleasure and instruction to its members and protegés.

The Episcopal Church supports a great many charities, such as St. Luke's Hospital, on Bernal Heights, founded in 1872; the Church Union, founded in 1870; and the Church Home, also founded in 1870, all of which are liberally maintained, the receipts and expenditures amounting to several thousand dollars annually.

The Ladies' Pastoral Aid Society is a recent organization by the ladies of Trinity Church, having for its object the care and protection of the destitute and friendless within the bounds of Trinity Parish; to find employment for those requiring it; to provide clothing and assistance for such as may be in need; to visit and comfort the sick; to endeavor to bring to the church those who are neglectful of its services, particularly the poor and friendless classes; to gather children into the Sunday School, and to aid in providing active and competent teachers; to advance the interests of the Church of Christ, and to extend the privileges and blessings of the Gospel.

The Union Missionary Society is organized for the purpose of visiting the sick and administering to the wants of the needy. They also propose to establish a sewing school for poor girls, and to extend such facilities as may be deemed advisable for their future well-being; also a laundry, for the employment of women in need of work.

Among other recent organizations are the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, to better the condition and elevate the tastes of friendless and neglected boys; the Little Sisters' Society, to take care of the young children of working women, thus allowing the mothers to perform a day's work; the Teachers' Mutual Aid Society; St. Patrick's Mutual Alliance of the U. S.; and the Netherlands Benevolent Society.

The Little Sisters is a peculiar organization, arising from the endeavor of a few children to hold a fair for the purpose of aiding a needy family; and finding their effort a success, organized as a society to continue the kind work. The society now has an Infant Shelter at 805 Bush Street, where, in pleasant and spacious rooms, they have fitted up an attractive nursery.

The secret orders and societies are in great number and of high standing. The orders of Masons, Odd Fellows, Druids, Red Men, etc., are bodies of great wealth and usefulness, and fill an important place in the society of San Francisco. Several of these possess stately edifices, have extensive libraries, maintain banks, publish papers, and in various ways manifest their importance and perform their duties. Added to these are the Immigrant Aid Association, Prison Association, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and numerous others, showing the broad field occupied.

The benevolent societies, composed of people of foreign birth, for the object of aiding their fellow-countrymen, are numerous and efficient. The English, Scotch, Welsh, and Irish have their organizations, divided into several classes and divisions, all with a large number of members. The British Benevolent Society exercises a supervision over the wants of the subjects of that kingdom, relieving in the past year one thousand and nine persons, and expending $5,176. The Germans, French, Italians, Russians, Portuguese, Mexicans, Greeks, Scandinavians, Sclavonians, Hebrews, and Chinese maintain organizations for the same purpose, showing a benevolence of the highest character, and most worthily occupying their appropriate fields of usefulness. The German General Benevolent Society is a large and effective organization, having one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two members residing in the city and two hundred and fifty in the interior. This generous society maintains a hospital worthy of its high character, and which would be an honor to any city or state.

The French Benevolent Society is an institution in keeping with the most noble of its class here, where the rank is of the highest grade. This society has one of the finest hospitals of the State. It is a spacious edifice of brick, with pleasant gardens and ornamented grounds surrounding it, making it a most desirable home to the invalid. Other nationalities maintain their hospitals and their homes, thus indicating the care taken of all and the unbounded benevolence of all classes and peoples who have made San Francisco their abiding place.

It is difficult to form an estimate of the amount received as contributions and dues and expended by this vast array of benevolent associations. The Orphan Asylums, the Odd Fellow, Masonic, Red Men, and Druid organizations, the German, French, and Italian societies, etc., each disburse many thousands of dollars annually. But this is not all. The State generously steps in and lends a helping hand. The appropriations by the Legislature for benevolent purposes is about three quarters of a million dollars annually; chiefly, however, for the charities directly under State control, as the Insane Asylum, Deaf, Dumb, and Blind Asylum, and State Reformatory for Boys, and a large sum also goes to charitable institutions outside of this city. Among the appropriations of the last Legislature, are the following to the various Orphan Asylums of the State: San Francisco Protestant, $4,000; San Francisco Roman Catholic, $4,000; San Francisco Pacific Hebrew, $3,000; Boys', San Rafael, $3,000; Protestant, Sacramento, $1,500; St. Joseph's, Sacramento, $1,500; Grass Valley (Catholic), $2,000; Pajaro (male), $1,500; Santa Barbara, $1,500; Sisters of Mercy, Los Angeles, $1,500; Good Templars, Vallejo, $1,000; St. Vincent, Petaluma, $1,000. To other societies as follows: San Francisco charities: Magdalen Asylum, $5,000; Female Hospital, $6,000; Ladies' Relief and Protection, $7,500; State Woman's Hospital, $4,000; Lying-in Hospital, $6,000; Protestant Episcopal Church Home, $1,000; Old Women's Home, Rincon Hill, and St. Luke's Society, $1,000; Howard Benevolent Society, Sacramento, $2,500, and $1,000 each to the Ladies' Benevolent societies in interior towns as follows: Stockton, Marysville, Napa, Placerville, Grass Valley, Vallejo, Oakland, San José, Nevada City, and San Diego.

To give a full account of all the associations for charitable and social objects would exceed the limits we could devote to the purpose, but would refer to the Appendix on pages 939-956 inclusive, for a complete list of the different organizations, exhibiting in detail their operations during the past year and their present condition, to which attention is invited.

AID UNION.

This society was incorporated June 13, 1874, and has now one hundred and fifty-three members. The object of this society is to pay to its sick members $1.50 a day, and to the heirs of its members $500 for each membership a member holds. There are no assessments at the deaths of members, as the lives of the members are re-insured in the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, the Union paying all premiums thereon, as long as they remain members. The benefit of this re-insurance is: 1. That only persons, who are at the application sound and healthy can join the Union and participate in the sick fund. 2. That every member knows exactly how much he has to pay. 3. That members do not lose their money if they cease to be members, as the policy of life insurance will then become their property.

Hospitals.

The hospitals of San Francisco will compare favorably with those of other cities of its size and population. The public institutions are ample in accommodation and appointment, while those of private character are to be found in all parts of the city. The Germans and French have for years had fine hospital buildings, the one belonging to the latter having recently received extensive additions. The Sisters of Mercy own a large structure on Rincon Hill, and the Italians have, within a few years, completed a commodious building four miles from the business portion of the city. The special purpose of these hospitals is to provide for certain classes of our citizens, as the French, the German, the Italian, etc., but all who desire to avail themselves of their advantages are admitted upon payment of most reasonable fees. Besides the institutions enumerated above, there are several smaller ones which have been established through the munificence of our citizens, and whose names indicate their special uses. These are the State Woman's Hospital, the San Francisco Woman's Hospital, the Foundling Asylum and Lying-In Hospital, etc.

For years the facilities offered by the city were entirely inadequate, and much feeling was from time to time occasioned in the efforts to obtain creditable hospital buildings for its poor. All such feeling has now disappeared in the satisfaction occasioned by the completion of a hospital, of which, at least, we have no cause to feel ashamed. Not only are the buildings and accommodations much more ample, but the location is far more suitcd to the purposes in view. The grounds are in the southern portion of the city, and comprise the two blocks bounded by Nevada, Sierra, and Nebraska streets and Potrero Avenue. They measure eight hundred and sixty-six feet by four hundred and eighty-one feet, or nearly ten acres. The location is somewhat elevated, at least sufficiently so to insure efficient drainage, and though not very accessible at present will, when the contemplated extension of the Sixth Street line out Potrero Avenue is completed, be but a short ride from Market Street, requiring no more time than was necessary to reach the former hospital. The main buildings face the west, the hospital entrance being on Potrero Avenue, which runs nearly north and south. An entirely different plan has been adopted to that usually in vogue. Several individual structures, most of them at considerable distance from each other, but connected by a long covered corridor, unite to form the hospital. With the exception of the kitchen and laundry, which are of brick, all of the buildings are of wood, with brick foundations. The individual structures are: The administrative and dining-hall buildings, each three stories high, situated in the center of the block, opposite each other, and on either side of the center of the covered corridor, which is five hundred and fifty-six feet long by eighteen feet wide, and runs lengthwise of the block; the kitchen and laundry, back of the dining rooms; the chapel, at the south end of the corridor; the gate house, stable, morgue, operating rooms, etc., scattered about in various places, and lastly six long pavilions, each two stories high, and each designed to accommodate sixty-four patients (with their nurses), thirty-two on a floor. It is designed eventually to have twelve pavilions, to be built in pairs, opposite each other, on either side of the long corridor and parallel to the main buildings; the first pairs, on either side, being a hundred feet from the main buildings, the second pairs a hundred feet from the first, and the third a hundred feet from the second. Six pavilions are considered sufficient for present purposes. With the most generous allowance of space, they will contain three hundred and eighty-four patients. In an emergency at least a hundred more could be accommodated without serious overcrowding. Since moving into these new quarters in September, 1872, the number of patients has largely increased, owing, partly, at least, to the greater comfort afforded. The average number of patients in the City and County Hospital for the year 1873, was three hundred and fifty-seven, and during this period the total admissions numbered three thousand and seventy-four, and the deaths two hundred and fifty-eight. It may be further mentioned that there are treated at the hospital from fifteen hundred to two thousand out-patients yearly. In 1873, nearly eleven thousand prescriptions were put up for out-patients.

The officers are: Resident Physician, Dr. W. M. Lawlor; Assistant Resident Physician, Dr. J. W. Keeney; Visiting Surgeons, Drs. W. A. Douglass and H. H. Toland; Visiting Physicians, Drs. F. A. Holman and C. M. Bates. Besides these, the medical staff is composed of Dr. Martinache of the University of California and Drs. Gibbons and Barkan of the Medical College of the Pacific, whose services are rendered gratuitously.

In 1867, the Alms House, a large and substantial frame building, was constructed near Lake Honda, by the city. The need of such an establishment had become urgent, as the City and County Hospital was burdened with the permanently disabled and superannuated, who had been accumulating for years. This building will accommodate five hundred persons, the average number present in 1873 being three hundred and twenty-four, and the total admissions for the year being three hundred and eighty-eight. In the hospital wards there is an average of seventy patients. Fifty deaths occurred in 1873. The officers are a superintendent, Mr. M. J. Keating, and a resident physician, Dr. S. R. Gerry.

Besides the Hospital and Alms House, the city owns two frame buildings about half a mile from the hospital, which were constructed at the time of the small-pox epidemic in 1868-9, and are capable of accommodating in the neighborhood of two hundred patients. One of the buildings is still reserved for small-pox cases, eighty-seven of which have been treated there during the year, with sixteen deaths; the other is used as a Chinese Hospital. In this last were admitted thirty-four cases, mostly chronic, two of them being cases of elephantiasis, or leprosy. The patients were all under the professional care of Dr. L. P. Foster.

In the fall of 1865 the San Francisco Health Office was established. Prior to this time no mortuary records had been preserved by the city. The creation of the office has resulted in unquestionable advantage, leaving out of consideration the value of the statistics collected. A city Board of Health was created by the Legislature in 1870. It consists of the Mayor and four physicians, and has control over the Health Office and all the public charitable institutions of the city and county. From a small beginning the Health Department has grown into a very important branch of the city government. It controls appointments involving an expense to the city of several thousand dollars a month, and has a general oversight of all sanitary affairs.

The German Hospital is built upon a lot fronting one hundred and thirty-seven and a half feet on Brannan Street (near Third Street) and extending back two hundred and seventy-five feet. The main building is of brick, three stories high, facing the northwest, and occupies all the frontage except what is required for a wide carriage way. It was built in 1853; a wing was added in 1860, and a second wing in 1869, so that the hospital can accommodate one hundred and thirty patients. The remaining portion of the grounds, equaling over one half the area, is laid out with grass plats and walks, and planted with trees. There are but two wards in the hospital, each containing ten beds; the remaining rooms being designed for one or two patients only. The hospital is under the control of the German General Benevolent Society, which now numbers twenty-three hundred and forty members. The charges, which include medical attendance, are $2 per day, with from 50cts. to $1.50 extra for private rooms if they be desired. During the year 1873, the German Hospital received for treatment six hundred and fifty-two patients, the average number present being about sixty-five. There were sixty-two deaths in the same period. The attending physicians are Drs. Loehr, Regensberger, Wilhelm, and Smith. The resident physician is Dr. Carl W. Betzel.

The French Hospital, or "Maison de Santé," is also under the charge of a society, the "Société Française de Bienfaisance Mutuelle," organized in 1851, and now having a membership of three thousand two hundred. The building is a large two-story brick structure, occupying the center of a hundred-vara (two hundred and seventy-five by two hundred and seventy-five feet) lot on Bryant Street, between Fifth and Sixth streets, the remaining grounds being laid out in gardens and planted with trees.

Originally, the hospital completed in 1859 was but one story in hight. In 1869 a second story was added, increasing the capacity to the accommodation of one hundred and seventy patients. In 1873, there were admitted to this hospital seven hundred and ninety-three patients, the weekly average number present being sixty-four. During the year there were fifty-two deaths. The charges are $2 per day for ward patients, $3 for those desiring private rooms. Drs. Pigné-Dupuytren and D'Oliveira are the visiting physicians, and Dr. E. Pruvost is the apothecary.

One of the finest of the private hospitals is the St. Mary's Hospital, under the care of the Sisters of Mercy. It was erected in 1861 on a hundred-vara lot on the southwest corner of Bryant and First streets. The building is of brick, is four stories high, and measures seventy-five by one hundred and fifty feet on the ground. The design is, when occasion shall require, to add to it a wing, which will double its present capacity. No hospital in this city excels this in interior arrangement. The ceilings are high, the halls broad, the rooms capacious, the ventilation and general adaptability to the purposes intended excellent. There are but one or two large wards, the majority being intended to accommodate from six to twelve patients; besides these there are a number of private rooms. In the wards and rooms there are beds for one hundred and eight patients. During the year the wards are often full; the average number of patients for the year 1873 was about a hundred, and the total admission for the year numbered eight hundred and forty-one. In the same period one hundred and seventeen deaths occurred. Patients in the general wards are charged $10 per week, those occupying private rooms $20. For several years Dr. L. C. Lane has been visiting surgeon. Dr. James Murphy is visiting physician.

In 1868 the Italian Benevolent Society erected a hospital for the use of its members and others. Two blocks, bounded by Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Noe, and Castro streets—four miles from the City Hall—had been secured, and afford a most admirable site. The building faces the east. It is of brick, two stories in hight and contains beds for forty patients. A wing may be conveniently added should more room be required. During the first eleven months of 1872, there were admitted to this hospital two hundred and three patients, the average number present at any one time being over eighteen; and the number under treatment on the first of December, 1872, being about ten. For various reasons, perhaps as much because of its great distance from the central portion of the city as from any other cause, this hospital was closed toward the latter part of 1873; when it will again be opened for patients is not known.

In 1853 the Government caused to be erected at Rincon Point a very large four-story brick hospital, one of the finest buildings in the city at that time, and ever since, from its character and position, a prominent landmark. It was designed for eight hundred patients—sailors of the merchant and national marine—probably five times as many as were ever within its walls at one time. Until 1868 it continued to be used. In this year the severe earthquake further impaired a foundation already rendered insecure by extensive grading, which had left the hospital perched upon a high embankment, and it was vacated. Orders have been issued to dispose of the building for whatever its material may be worth, when it is expected another one will be erected in a different locality. After numerous removals and vicissitudes, the patients have at last secured a home in the buildings formerly occupied as the asylum for the deaf, dumb, and blind, on the corner of Mission and Fifteenth streets. The ground is ample, the buildings, two in number, and four stories high, of brick, and perhaps as suitable for a hospital as buildings converted to such purposes generally are. They are probably the best accommodations that could be secured without building, and are calculated to contain one hundred and twenty-five patients, though the average number in 1873 was but sixty-five. In this year there were admitted five hundred and thirty-five patients. During the same period eighteen deaths occurred. The hospital is under the professional charge of Dr. C. N. Ellinwood. It is altogether probable that within a short time suitable buildings will be provided for this class of patients. Already a site has been selected in the neighborhood of Mountain Lake, in the Presidio Reservation, and plans have been drawn for appropriate buildings, including three pavilions, each one story in hight, to accommodate thirty-two patients each. The structure is to be of wood.

The writer of this article has visited all the hospitals above named, some of them frequently. Their internal arrangements are creditable to their authorities, convenient and comfortable to patients, and calculated to afford excellent facilities for the cure of disease. Nearly all, if not all, the establishments are provided with bathing apparatus, not only for common use, but for special application in treatment. Thus a patient may have warm, cold, shower, steam, or medicated baths, at the option of his physician. The medical staff of the different institutions is ample, and as will be seen, includes physicians of excellent standing in the profession.

The larger hospitals have now been considered. There remain to be mentioned, a few smaller institutions inaugurated for special objects. The buildings which these occupy were not built for such purposes, but have all been converted from dwelling-houses. The State Woman's Hospital, corner of Twelfth and Howard streets, receives only those with diseases peculiar to women. All who are able are expected to pay; but a limited number of those unable to do so, are received gratuitously. Eighteen patients can be accommodated, and in 1873 this number was constantly on hand. There were admitted during the year ninety-three patients. In explanation of the small number admitted during the year, it may be mentioned that most of the cases require months, some as many as eight, of treatment, before a cure be effected. The hospital is under the charge of Dr. John Scott, assisted by Doctors Raymond and Chismore.

On the corner of Clay Street and Prospect Place is the San Francisco Woman's Hospital, of which Dr. C. T. Deane is the physician. As the certificate of incorporation shows, this institution was established for the cure of sick females, and to provide them with a home, medical attendance, medicines, and proper care during such period of sickness. It is in fact a general hospital for females, who are received and treated gratuitously. There were received here during the years 1872 and 1873 three hundred and seventy-one patients. One hundred and sixty-four of these were admitted for various diseases. Two hundred and seven infants were born in the two years, a hundred and thirty-one of which were legitimate. A little more than half of those admitted were non-residents. The Hospital, which contains thirty beds, had an average for the two years of from eighteen to twenty inmates.

In 1868 the San Francisco Lying-in Hospital and Foundling Asylum was incorporated, for respectable married women or unprotected single women, and for the care and protection of such children as may be born in said hospital, and foundlings without distinction of color. The special character of the institution will be seen at once; it will be appreciated that it differs from all other charities, in receiving no cases of disease whatever. The hospital and asylum has been in successful operation for several years at 269 Jessie Street, under the professional care of Dr. Benjamin F. Hardy. It provides a room for each pregnant woman, of which it can accommodate twenty-one, besides providing room for the infants left in its charge. Arrangements are being perfected for extensive additions, which will largely increase its usefulness. In 1872 and 1873 a hundred and thirty-four women were admitted, who gave birth to a hundred and forty-one infants; besides which ninety-four infants were deposited at the door, making two hundred and twenty-eight admissions. Sixty-one of the infants were given away and adopted; forty-seven were taken away by their mothers.

A little more than two years ago the various Episcopal churches, desiring to provide more fully for the sick and needy of their parishes, organized St. Luke's Hospital, and procured a building beyond the Mission. Though designed for the poor of the Episcopal parishes, St. Luke's Hospital is not exclusive, but receives patients of all denominations, and is general in its character. It contains beds for twenty patients, fifteen of which are, on the average, occupied, and is visited professionally by Drs. W. A. Douglass and W. T. Bradbury. The managers are now raising funds for the purchase of a lot upon which to erect a suitable building.

It will be seen that exclusive of the Alms House and the Small-pox Hospital, the city, in its public and private charities, offers accommodation for nearly a thousand patients; that during 1873 nearly six thousand five hundred persons availed themselves of their advantages, of which over five hundred and fifty died; and that the average number of patients under treatment was over seven hundred.

Cemeteries.

There is, perhaps, no feature connected with a prominent city that occupies a greater degree of interest in the estimation of strangers and visitors than its cemeteries. One of the most attractive spots to the visitor to the great American Metropolis is the "City of the Dead" at Greenwood. The peaceful shades of Mount Auburn have a melancholy charm to those who make a pilgrimage to the great capital of the Bay State, and no one enters the City of Brotherly Love, without seeing the classic monuments tastefully laid out, beautifully-adorned, and admirably-kept grounds at Laurel Hill. Other cities of lesser extent and fewer years exhibit equal taste and regard for the depositories of their dead. Spring Grove at Cincinnati, Mount Hope at Rochester, the Albany Cemetery, and numerous others, are examples of taste in the selection of the location and beauty of adorning and arrangement. In point of grandeur of locality, our own Laurel Hill and Calvary cemeteries, situated as they are in full view of that noblest of all monuments—the mighty ocean—are nowhere surpassed. There is a fitness and sublimity in their contiguity to the waves of the Pacific and the entrance to the Golden Gate, that never fails to impress every beholder. In the way of monuments erected to the memory of the departed by the hand of affection and regard, many may be found in the city cemeteries which are alike models of artistic elegance and pure and refined taste.

There are eight cemeteries in this city. The Mission Burial Ground (no longer used as a place of interment), established in 1776; Laurel Hill (late Lone Mountain) in 1854; Calvary in 1860; Masonic in 1864; Odd Fellows' in 1865; Home of Peace in 1865; Sherrith Israel in 1865, and the City in 1873. The last is intended as a depository of the city's dead, and is situated at the termination of California Street. A new cemetary is proposed to be established in the vicinity of Lake Honda. A large plat of land has been set apart for the purpose, and the necessary improvements will be soon commenced to adapt it for public use.

Associations—Protective, Literary, Etc.

For a description of the different associations, the reader is referred to the Appendix, pages 956–965, in which will be found the officers and operations of each during the past year. The progress made by many of these associations reflects credit upon the members thereof, and is worthy of the liberality so generously extended in their support.

Manufactures.

The annual review of the manufactures of San Francisco shows a gradual advancement to the close observer; still the advancement is by no means such as the hopeful look for, nor such as the needs of the country demand, or in measure as the opportunity offers. A few years since, we noticed a forward movement along the whole line of local industries, giving promise to the hope that the consuming needs of the country would be supplied by the enterprise and labor, and to the profit of our own people. While success is believed to have followed nearly every branch of manufacture yet established in this city, and in many instances returning unexpected gains, the field is comparatively neglected for the more exciting adventure of mining speculation. This attractive field, made so by the great wealth acquired in the last few years by some of the principal mining operators, has driven the capital of the country to that channel to the neglect of other enterprises.

The enormous mineral and agricultural products of the country contributory to San Francisco, pour a constant stream of wealth into the city, now shown by the general prosperity and the rapid increase in building, and promising in the future a revival of every industry.

The abandance of the agricultural products demand all the tonnage that can be induced to enter the port, thus inviting imports at exceedingly low rates which compete with and retard our local manufactures. This, too, aids the importer in his contest with the home producer—an opposition that has been fatal to many manufacturing enterprises, and one that requires constant exertion, unwavering energy, and continued patience to overcome. Many articles of Eastern and Foreign manufacture have become favorites with consumers, and agencies of great profit to merchants have been established, and these conditions are difficult to disturb. Thirty million dollars worth of raw material of California product is exported annually, and forty million of treasure, which of course is returned in imported goods. This immense commerce passes its profits to distant lands, giving to our own but a slight percentage. It is evident that the field of manufacture is but partly occupied, and that the opportunity is inviting.

The pressing demands of the mining interest gave a stimulus to iron manufacture, and the many foundries in the city, as well as throughout the country, are the consequences constituting a leading industry. Some of these are quite extensive establishments, and the work turned out will compare favorably with that of any country. The principal of these are, the Union, Miners' Fulton, Vulcan, Ætna, Pacific, Golden State, Phœnix, Pioneer, Portland, California, Eureka, Occidental, Colombia, Risdon Boiler Works, and the Pacific Rolling Mills. These are quite complete in all their appointments, and capable of turning out from three to five million dollars' worth of work annually, employing about fifteen hundred men. Locomotives for several railroads have been made at the Union of fine finish and great power. The castings for the Stetefeldt Furnaces, are also produced here, as well as numerous other specialties. At the Golden State are made the castings and iron work for quicksilver furnaces; and as this branch of mining has recently been greatly extended by new discoveries, the business of preparing furnaces promises to be large. At the Miners' a great deal of mining machinery is always in course of construction, and the interesting experiments of many inventors are often seen on trial. Specialties of manufacture and many new inventions are found at every establishment.

The Pacific Saw Company rank amongst the iron workers, and constitute a very important and interesting portion. At this establishment on Fremont Street, are made the principal part of the saws used in the lumbering regions of the Pacific Coast. Having the Spaulding patent tooth, it maintains a monopoly of circular saw manufacture and supplies a great and growing demand. But its operations are not confined to this class, as saws of every description are made from the tiny ivory cutter to those of six or seven feet in diameter. Much of the machinery used is of the invention of Mr. N. W. Spaulding, and the style of manufacture in many respects is peculiar to this house.

Of notable importance are the Selby Silver and Lead Smelting and Reduction Works, covering a vast expanse, and fitted with every appliance for conducting these operations on a grand scale. They are the most extensive and complete in the Union, and are susceptible of being greatly enlarged. This establishment is most advantageously located at the very edge of deep water where the heaviest ships can load with facility and dispatch. The works are now capable of consuming one thousand two hundred tons of lead and silver ore per month for refining, and one thousand tons per month for smelting and reduction. On several occasions, one thousand tons of pig lead per month have been landed in New York, and a regular monthly supply of from four hundred to five hundred tons is maintained for exportation to the East, besides the large quantities required for interior and domestic consumption. The superiority of our lead is now universally admitted, while the quality of the sheet lead, lead pipe, and shot turned out at the Shot Tower—which is an auxiliary to the Smelting and Refining Works—is not equaled by the like fabrics of other places. Two sets of hands are employed, night and day, and number collectively over one hundred and thirty men, many of them having families which are comfortably and independently supported through the agency of this great industry. In addition to the lead obtained from the ores by these works, large quantities of gold and silver are also extracted. The chief source of supply for these works, has been the argentiferous galena mines of Cerro Gordo in Inyo County, whence has been derived during the past year some ten thousand tons of lead bullion. The silver-lead mines of Eureka, Battle Mountain, and other points in Nevada also send here a portion of their products.

This, both in mining and reduction, is a rapidly growing interest, and as there is no limit to the supply there is, practically, no limit to the market. In view of this, other works of a similar nature are projected in various parts of the country, some Eastern cities making most strenuous exertions to secure a precedence of the business. In Alameda County are two lead reduction works, where it is contemplated to so refine the metal as to fit it for the manufacture of paint, of which many thousands of tons is used annually. Here again occurs one of the anomalies of our business, that while we produce everything that enters into the manufacture of white lead paint, we send it all to foreign countries whence we re-import it with the added costs of freight, manufacture, waste, interest, other profits, and customs duties. As this is so connected with mining, the prospect may not be obscured by the brilliancy of that interest, as in the case of other branches of industry.

The Woolen Mills of San Francisco show a healthy condition, but not the progress it is generally thought the interest demands. The large profits in wool growing, and the many million pounds shipped East for sale, prove the adaptability of the country to its production, while the imports of woolen goods show the demand for fabrics of that material. Some of the products of our mills are of such a superior quality as to be exported in large quantities, competing successfully with those of any country. The two mills, the Pioneer and the Mission and Pacific, show a slight advance over former years. The first, situated at Black Point, is a factory of nineteen sets of carders, seven thousand eight hundred spindles, and sixty-seven broad looms. The building and machinery cost $400,000, and the capital of the company is $450,000. Last year they used one million five hundred thousand pounds of wool, worth $300,000. They made five hundred thousand yards of cassimeres and two hundred and sixty thousand yards of blankets, etc. The total value of the manufacture was $750,000. The amount spent in labor was $30,000, which gave employment to three hundred and fifty hands, including one hundred white men, twenty-five women, twenty-five boys, and two hundred Chinese. The Mission and Pacific Mill takes first rank among the mills of the Pacific Coast; and proud of it as San Franciscans justly are, it appears insignificant when compared with some of the great mills of the Eastern States. The capacity of woolen mills is reckoned by numbers of sets of cards. The Mission and Pacific has twenty sets, and on the whole Pacific Coast are but eighty. In the State of Massachusetts are three thousand sets, a single mill at Lawrence having one hundred and twelve. Even the new State of Kansas exceeds California in its woolen manufactures, and little Rhode Island has one hundred mills and eight hundred sets of machinery. The Mission and Pacific, although having but twenty sets, claims a capacity of thirty-six sets, from the manner in which the mill is run. Added to these are seven thousand spindles and eighty-seven broad looms. The value of goods manufactured in 1873 was $1,100,000; this year it will be $1,300,000, showing an advance of over eighteen per cent. in one year. There was used altogether one million eight hundred thousand pounds of wool; this year there will be used two million two hundred thousand pounds. Of the wool used last year, there were one million four hundred thousand pounds Californian, three hundred thousand pounds Australian, and one hundred thousand pounds Oregon. Besides the wool there was also one hundred and fifty thousand pounds of cotton used, or about fifteen per cent. of the whole. The department for the manufacture of hosiery turns out about $200,000 worth a year, the rest of the manufacture being made up of cassimeres, tweeds, shawls, flannels, blankets, and every variety of woolen goods. Some of the goods appear to be equal in make and finish to anything imported or foreign, and many of the cassimeres and tweeds are of remarkable beauty. There are here constantly employed three hundred and eighty-seven white people and four hundred and fifty-six Chinese. Of the white people, eighty are men with families, eighty-five to one hundred boys, and the balance women and girls. The average pay-roll is from $18,000 to $21,000 per month. The white men employed earn, on an average, $2.50 per day; the women from $30 to $40 per month, and the boys from $4 to $7 per week, averaging perhaps $5. The Chinese employed earn about $1 per day. The buildings of the factory on Fifteenth and Folsom streets, are seven hundred and ninety-three feet long by an average of fifty feet wide, and are two stories in hight. The hosiery department by itself is two hundred feet long, and two stories in hight. Besides these there are a dye-house and workshops and a large stone storehouse, one hundred and thirty feet long by fifty feet wide, two stories high, and capable of receiving two million pounds of wool. On arriving at the factory, the wool is first assorted and scoured. Then it is colored, picked, carded, spun, and afterward wove into cloth, blankets, etc. There are but two hundred and twenty thousand yards of cassimeres, tweeds, etc., made annually, which are worth from 95 cents to $1.60 per yard. Every week there is sent from this factory, East over the railroad, a car load of goods, worth from $25,000 to $30,000. They work largely for the Government. Their goods go everywhere over the coast, to Japan, China, and British Columbia. The capital of the company, which is a close corporation, is $650,000. The mill occupies three blocks of land, which were bought at a nominal price, but which are now worth from $600,000 to $700,000. The buildings and machinery are worth, at least, $400,000.

Our wooden fabrics are diversified and important, although for some of the materials employed we are dependent upon Eastern supplies. This is especially the case in the manufacture of wagons, buggies, carriages, and other articles requiring the use of hickory, white oak, and walnut. We are fairly furnished with saw-mills; sash, door, and blind factories; coopérages; furniture manufacturers; billiard-table constructors; piano makers; wooden ware and broom manufacturers; boat builders and other similar concerns, numbering one hundred and twenty-two, turning out an aggregate annual value of millions of dollars of perfected articles.

A. S. Hallidie is proprietor of the only wire and rope works on the coast. The establishment went into operation in 1857, and has met with a large measure of success, the demand being somewhat urgent and steady. This gentleman has recently invented a cheap and ready mode for the conveyance of ores to mill, by means of buckets or cars suspended on wire ropes, which traverse mountainous ridges inaccessible to ordinary modes of transportation. The works are capable of supplying from twelve hundred to fourteen hundred tons of wire rope per annum, besides manufacturing largely in the way of screens, sieves, wire cloth, cables for suspension bridges, and other like articles.

The San Francisco Cordage Factory was organized in 1856, and has now grown into large proportions. The rope-walk has an extreme length of one thousand eight hundred feet, and the spinning department occupies a building two hundred feet long by fifty feet in width. The products of the works exceed four million pounds of cordage annually. The success of this establishment has induced the erection of a similar one near Alameda, on a large scale, which is now in successful operation.

Twelve tanneries supply the leather used in the city, with a considerable surplus for export. The products of leather constitute an encouraging feature in our manufactures. But a few years since, the boots, shoes, slippers, harness, saddles, etc., were almost entirely imported, the shoe and harness makers exercising their trade mostly in repairing. Now these, in a great measure, are of home manufacture, and the wealth derived has so stimulated enterprise in that direction that we now rank shoemaking as one of the most prominent of our local industries. Devoted to this branch are several large establishments, employing from three hundred to six hundred persons in each, turning out from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 worth of goods annually. In the large factories, about half the employés are Chinese. These people quite monopolize the making of slippers, which were formerly imported at considerable cost; but the cheaper rates at which they are furnished have caused the importation to cease. The success of the Chinese in this department has raised an envious cry of denunciation of cheap labor; but as in this case they entered an unoccupied and neglected field, the act is more for congratulation than regret.

Our harness makers now export their wares largely to the Eastern States, and orders are so extensive that it is impossible to meet the demand. This is not the rough and cheap work, but costly sets of from $300 to $500 a pair. By some it is averred that this would only be possible from the fact that harness and saddles are the work of State Prison convicts, and made at rates impossible to free labor.

Great hopes have been entertained of the silk manufacture, but the progress is slow. At South San Francisco the California Silk Manufacturing Co. are operating successfully in the manufacture of sewing silk, twist, etc. This factory occupies a building of fifty feet front by one hundred and twenty-five in depth, and employs forty hands, chiefly women and young girls, who earn from $3 to $15 per week. The Union Pacific Silk Manufacturing Co. organized about two years since, with a capital of $100,000, which has recently been increased to $250,000. The works of this company are situated in Visitacion Valley, and are capable of turning out about $6,000 worth of goods weekly. The principal product has been ribbons.

The manufacture of cigars is rising to unusual importance. There are about one hundred and fifty establishments in this city, of which sixty-two are owned and superintended by Chinese, engaged in the business, employing about six thousand men and turning out ten million cigars monthly, valued at from $30 to $35 per thousand, or an annual product of about $4,000,000. The chief business is in the hands of American citizens, but the employés are almost exclusively Chinese, of whom many are young boys and girls. The work is usually done by the piece, the operators making from $5 to $15 per week, working ten hours per diem. Without the Chinese there would be no available labor that would enable this branch of manufactures to attain the position it has. The tobacco is principally Havana and Connecticut, and about two and a half million pounds are used annually. The tobacco of California, cured by a new process, is said to be superior to all others, and the prospect bids fair for our supplying the world with the seductive weed.

The Pacific Chemical Works, located at the corner of Mason and Francisco streets, are engaged chiefly in refining borax, but also manufacture nitrate of silver, spirits of niter, cyanide of potassium, absolute alcohol, mercurial ointments of all kinds, salts of zinc, salts of magnesia, and other chemical preparations. Until recently the greater part of the borax used in this State, and nearly all used in the United States, was imported from foreign countries. For some years the products of Borax Lake, in Lake Co., furnished a partial supply, but that resource is now abandoned. East of the Sierra, in Esmeralda Co., Nevada, and in Inyo Co., California, are found vast deposits of borate of soda and borate of lime, from which the borax of commerce is extracted at the Pacific Chemical Works. The refining is by a peculiar process, kept secret by the company. From twenty to thirty men are employed. The manufacture of acids at the various chemical works is sufficient for the present demand. Few contemplate the value and importance of sulphuric acid, and how extensively it enters into various manufactures. It is used in making soda, soap, glass, paper, candles, refining metals, preparing medicines, and in countless ways is valuable to mankind. In Europe some eight hundred thousand tons are made annually, chiefly of pyrites, for which six hundred and sixty thousand tons are required. As other manufactures are established this will advance, and fortunately the country will supply the material for any demand.

BROWELL'S SALAMANDER CHIMNEY STACKS.

This important and valuable improvement for buildings, although but a short time before the public, has already received the hearty approval of a large number of architects and builders for durability and economy, and by insurance agents for absolute protection against fire. They are particularly well adapted for the ventilation and heating of churches, school houses, theaters, and all kinds of public or private buildings. So universal is their application, that they can be readily set on any fire place, or outside of brick or frame buildings; in fact, they may be placed in any part of the house with perfect safety, without going to the foundation. They can also be applied to cooking stoves, ranges, blast furnaces, pottery kilns, etc. The principal improvement in these stacks consists in constructing the chimney or stack of sections of fire-clay, earthenware, cement, or artificial stone, and surrounding said chimney with a metallic tube larger than the chimney, in order to provide the necessary ventilation for keeping the inner pipe cool, and for furnishing warm air to the rooms of the house. It is claimed by the inventor, that these stacks insure a perfect draft, that they do not rust or wear out like iron or brick, and that they do not occupy one tenth the space required by the old style of chimneys. These advantages are entitled to the consideration of those interested in promoting any improvement that will add to the domestic comfort of the people.

Water Companies.

SPRING VALLEY WATER WORKS.

The original Spring Valley Water Company was incorporated in June, 1858, and in July, 1861, the water from Islais Creek was introduced into the city by the company.

The present organization is formed by a consolidation of the San Francisco City and Spring Valley Water Works companies. Date of incorporation, January, 1865.

The present works receive their supply from two sources—Lobos and Pillarcitos creeks. Lobos Creek is a stream of pure, fresh water, emptying into the bay near Point Lobos, which supplies two million five hundred thousand gallons daily. The distance of the stream from the Plaza is three and one half miles, in a direct line. The water is elevated by four double-acting pumps, with a capacity of four million of gallons, daily, propelled by two steam engines of two hundred and fifty horse-power each, to the distributing reservoirs on the adjacent hills, the highest being three hundred and eight feet above the city base, located at the corner of Hyde and Greenwich streets; the second, which is situated immediately below, at the intersection of Hyde and Francisco streets, is one hundred and fifty feet above the city base. The capacity of the first is four million of gallons, and that of the lower, seven million.

Pillarcitos Creek is situated east of the coast range of mountains, distant from San Francisco about fifteen miles, in a southerly direction, and seven hundred feet above the level of the sea.

A large dam has been constructed in the Pillarcitos Valley, which is ninety-two feet in hight and six hundred feet long, containing one thousand million of gallons, and is drawn from as required in the reservoirs. From the east end of Tunnel No. 1, the water is conducted by a flume five by two feet, into a filter and sand-box, in its passage through which it is cleansed from vegetable matter and sediment; it then enters Tunnel No. 2, where the water undergoes another purification, and after passing through thirteen miles of thirty-inch wrought-iron pipe, and one mile of forty-inch flume, enters Tunnel No. 3, from whence Lake Honda and the city distributing reservoirs are supplied.

Lake Honda has a capacity of thirty-five million of gallons, and supplies the city by means of three miles of cast-iron mains to the reservoir on the corner of Buchanan and Market streets, which contains two million of gallons, and is the main distributing reservoir, supplying two fifths of the city.

The company has constructed a new reservoir, of fourteen million of gallons capacity, near Holly Park, called College Hill Reservoir, which is the main distributing reservoir for the lower part of the city. There is also a large reservoir in San Andreas Valley, thirteen miles south of the city, containing four thousand six hundred and fifty million of gallons. The water level is four hundred and thirty feet above the city base, from which the city will have a never-failing supply of the pure element.

The present amount of pipe laid down in the city proper is one hundred and forty miles. Capital stock of the company, $8,000,000, in eighty thousand shares of $100 each.
